Permanent U.N. Police Force Getting Study

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Authorizing dispatch of a peace force to a world hot spot now is accepted procedure at the United Nations. Even the Soviet Union appears to be agreeable at least in principle. But putting a force together swiftly and assuring its efficiency are tough problems.

The United Nations has no standby military force for use in times of crisis, such as those in Cyprus and the Congo.

Western diplomats took deep interest this week in a Soviet memorandum calling for establishment of a permanent U.N. peace force under the control of the Security Council.

The U.N. charter says that members shall provide armed forces when the council decides they are needed to maintain world peace.

It provides for a military staff committee to aid the council on the strength, employment and command of such forces. The committee is made up of five permanent members of the council—the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France and Nationalist China.

The committee disagreed back in 1947 on how military contributions should be made to such a force. It continues to meet periodically at U.N. headquarters but only long enough to exchange formalities.

In 1950, the General Assembly gave itself the right to act to preserve peace when a big power veto paralyzed the council. Under that authority the assembly set up the U.N. emergency force in the Middle East in 1956 and the Congo force in 1960. But the job of setting up the force in each instance fell to the secretary-general and his staff and not to the military staff committee.

In the case of Cyprus it took Secretary-General U Thant 10 days after the Security Council authorization to obtain commitments for the seven-nation, 6,200-man force now on that eastern Mediterranean island. It took more than three weeks before the force became operative.

The delay was due in part to demands from contributing nations as to what their troops would be expected to do in a situation that verged on civil war, how long they would be needed, and how expensive the operation would be.

The contributors were told that they would have to pay the costs of maintaining their troops in Cyprus because no U.N. money was available. Financial help was solicited from the wealthier countries. Contributions for the first three months included about $2 million from the United States and a million dollars from Britain.

To overcome this, the Scandinavian countries and Canada, with an approving nod from the United States, are organizing standby forces earmarked to go at the bidding of the United Nations.

The Soviet Union voted for the Cyprus operation but has not contributed money or services.

It has refused to pay anything in the past toward the Middle East and Congo forces and faces a fight in the General Assembly next fall to keep its voting rights. The charter provides that any member two years in arrears in total dues shall lose its voting right.

Some diplomats speculate that the Soviet Union may be seeking the creation of a force to which it could make a financial contribution that would avoid an assembly challenge. The Soviets also undoubtedly are seeking to put the authority over the force back in the military staff committee and the council, where they have the big power veto.

Utility, Union Find Accord

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A contract agreement has been reached by officials of the Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co. and Local 1466, International Brotherhood of Electric Workers, it was announced today by Federal Mediator H. J. Montoney.

Construction and maintenance workers covered by the contract are to vote whether to accept the company's proposal. Workers have remained on the job for a nine-day grace period after their contract expired shortly before midnight June 30. The union sought a new journeyman and apprentice training program.

Surgery Faces Girl, 4, In Firecracker Injury

CLEVELAND (AP) — Four-year-old Margaret Rolf was to undergo surgery today after suffering an eye injury from a firecracker thrown by her father, a member of the Cleveland Police Department.

Police said Frank A. Rolf threw the lighted firecracker into the back yard from a side door Wednesday night. Margaret ran over and was looking down at it when the firecracker exploded.

Baker Case Is Expected To Loom in GOP Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has closed its Bobby Baker investigation but its political overtones are expected to echo in this fall's election campaign as Republicans have charged "the full story has not been disclosed."

The Senate Rules Committee rang down the curtain on the seven-month probe into the wheelings and dealings of the former Senate aide with a report Wednesday saying he was "guilty of many gross improprieties."

But it left it up to the Justice Department to determine whether Baker should be prosecuted for any violations of criminal law.

The report was submitted to the Senate on behalf of the committee's Democratic majority by Chairman B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C.

Sen. Kennedy Is Enroute To Boston

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, bundled up like a piece of fragile china, was loaded aboard an ambulance today for a 100-mile drive to New England Baptist Hospital in Boston.

The 32-year-old Democratic senator from Massachusetts has been confined to Cooley Dickinson Hospital with a broken back since June 19 when a private plane crashed.

Kennedy smiled and waved to newsmen and onlookers while attendants carefully placed his stretcher aboard an Air Force ambulance.

In answer to newsmen's questions as to how he felt, Kennedy said quietly "Fine, fine."

As cameramen crowded around, state police kept shouting "Don't jostle that stretcher, Don't touch it."

Accompanying the senator were his wife, Joan, and Dr. Thomas F. Corriden, chief of surgery at Cooley Dickinson who has been in charge of his case since the crash of the plane bringing the senator from Washington to attend the Democratic State Convention.

Earlier, when Dr. Corriden announced the transfer, he said "Sen. Kennedy's recovery has been satisfactory and it is felt he will receive continued good care and treatment at the New England Baptist Hospital."

Colorado OKs Reapportionment

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado completed reapportionment of its Legislature Wednesday night, allocating seats in both the House of Representatives and Senate on the basis of population.

The action came only 23 days after the Supreme Court of the United States threw out a reapportionment system adopted by the state's voters because Senate seats were distributed on a geographical system.

The reapportionment law was hammered through the Republican-controlled Legislature during an eight-day special session. The new law shifts control from rural to urban areas.

three Republicans members accused the Democratic majority of ignoring their "rights" to have additional witnesses called including White House aide Walter Jenkins, and charged a "cover-up."

Jenkins figured in testimony by Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent with whom Baker was associated and who sold two $100,000 life insurance policies to President Johnson before he became president.

The GOP members, however, said they had no major criticism of the analysis of the evidence in the majority report. "It does reveal gross wrong doing, gross improprieties, and conduct which we believe to be unlawful," they said.

They said their criticism "is centered upon the fact that the majority refused to call all the witnesses and refused to get all the facts."

"The full story has not been disclosed concerning Bobby Baker and those associated with him, including present and former senators and Senate employees," the Republicans charged.

Baker, now 36, was elected majority secretary in 1955, the youngest man ever to hold the post. He became the right-hand man of Lyndon B. Johnson who was elected Senate Democratic majority leader at the same time.

Because of Baker's and Johnson's association, the committee's investigation had undercurrents which Republicans are expected to try to whip up in the campaign.

Baker, who resigned under fire last Oct. 7 from his $19,600-a-year Senate post, could not be reached for comment on the committee report.

When Baker was called by the committee as a witness, he invoked his Fifth Amendment protection against possible self-incrimination and refused to answer questions or to surrender subpoenaed records.

Kenya Chief Seeks Unity For Africans

LONDON (AP) — Rulers of Britain's former African colonies moved into a concerted drive today to free all Africans from white rule and unite their continent.

The drive was sparked by Kenya Prime Minister Jomo Kenyatta at the opening business session Wednesday of the week-long conference of Commonwealth leaders.

In calm, measured tones, Kenyatta appealed to the other Commonwealth premiers to form a united front on the question of African liberation and unity.

He called the roll of countries still ruled by whites but his aides said he would specifically attack the white minority governments in Southern Rhodesia and South Africa when the conference takes up the issue of "the progress of British territories towards independence."

This will probably come up Friday. Kenyan sources indicated Kenyatta would call for a Commonwealth boycott of South Africa. That republic has left the Commonwealth but still does much business with its members.

Scrantonites Thump Drums

Goldwater Forces Remain Confident

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. William W. Scranton went on thumping the drums hopefully today but Sen. Barry Goldwater's supporters plowed confidently toward their goal of a first ballot presidential nomination for the Arizona senator.

In the face of Scranton's declaration that an "overwhelming number of Republicans seem to think that I ought to be nominated and I think I ought to be, too," the Goldwater forces brought up a vigorous dissent.

Sen. Carl T. Curtis of Nebraska, the Arizona senator's convention floor manager, said that "we have got more than enough" delegate votes for the nomination "but we want more."

"We want to make the most impressive showing possible on the first ballot when Sen. Goldwater will win the nomination," he said.

Although Curtis declined to deal in numbers, Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., another Goldwater strategist, said in a separate interview "we've got more than 700 and we're getting more." A total of 655 convention votes is needed for the nomination.

Scranton has been emphasizing an interview Goldwater gave a German news weekly in which he said he doesn't believe, "as of now," that any GOP candidate can defeat President Johnson, but that it might be an entirely different story in November.

The hard truth of Goldwater's statement is acknowledged by almost every Republican willing to comment on it privately. But they add that this is not something a leading candidate for the party nomination should be saying publicly.

But Curtis said he found in a careful check that this incident has caused no perceptible falling off in Goldwater's delegate support. He said the Arizona senator was only making a frank, truthful analysis of the situation as it stands today.

Space Chief May Parley With Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. may be getting a visit from the nation's space chief to discuss the possibilities of the former astronaut returning to the space program.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Julian Scheer, said Wednesday that NASA head James E. Webb has offered to fly to Houston, Tex., to talk with Glenn. This would be when the Marine officer has recovered sufficiently from an ear injury which has disabled him since early this year.

Scheer, NASA's associate administrator for public affairs, said Webb called Glenn after hearing from a friend that the Ohioan was interested in returning to NASA.

Scheer described the Webb-Glenn telephone talk as an informal discussion with no commitments made.

Glenn resigned from NASA earlier this year to challenge Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, for his Senate seat in the primary. Glenn was forced to withdraw from the race when he fell against a bathtub and injured his inner ear, impairing his sense of balance.

Ohio Banker Accused

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Edward McDowell, 37, has been charged with embezzling $13,091 in funds as a trust officer for the First National Bank & Trust Co. here.

This Is GOP Year-Goldwater

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, front-running candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said today the party faces "a tough job" in the race against President Johnson—but added, "This is going to be a Republican year."

"United we will win," Goldwater said in an address prepared for an airport rally on his arrival in San Francisco for the Republican National Convention.

The Arizona senator made the transcontinental trip in a two-engine chartered plane, switching from a commercial airliner at the last minute.

"I expect that all Republicans will leave San Francisco to beat Lyndon B. Johnson and win the presidency of the United States," he said.

Goldwater was quoted Tuesday as saying "as of now" no Republican could beat Johnson. He added in a June 29 interview with the German magazine Der Spiegel, "On Election Day there is going to be another horse race."

"I know that we have a tough job ahead," he said today. "I also know that this is going to be a Republican year all across the country, from statehouse to courthouse and from Congress to the White House."

"I know that you are going to come out of this convention united and fighting — not with each other but with the Johnson foreign policy, its phony fiscal policy and its attempt to spend its way to political power," Goldwater said.

He added that "so-called popularity polls" will not win reelection for Johnson.

"I am here today because of only one thing," Goldwater said, "the support of the people in

Cleric Sees Try To Hush Fact of Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New York clergyman said today that although most morticians perform their task honestly there are others "who must be stigmatized as ghastly grave diggers" who prey on the living through the dead.

The Rev. Howard A. Johnson, canon theologian of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine (Protestant Episcopal), New York, told a Senate investigation into the funeral business that his criticism was not so much an attack on morticians "as it is upon us, the living."

"By our colossal ignorance of that which is taught in the church and in the synagogue," he said, "and by our fearful sentimentality in the face of death, (we) are guilty of leading some of the undertakers into temptation."

Most of America, he said, seems to be involved in a vast conspiracy to hush up the fact of death.

"Grief," he said, "causes the threshold of sales resistance to be low." To show some of the facts of costs, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, released at today's final hearing a chart showing that costs of identical funeral services rose sharply as the price of the casket increased.

Hearing Is Postponed In Death of Ex-Ohioan

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — A court hearing has been set back until July 22 for Robert Crafton, 32, charged with manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Judith Ann Houze McDowell, 19, formerly of Blanchester, Ohio.

Defense attorneys asked that the hearing be continued Wednesday after Crafton pleaded innocent. Crafton and witnesses say Mrs. McDowell was shot accidentally Tuesday as he handed her a pistol while visiting in her apartment.

'Favorite Son' Role Dropped

First Ballot Vote Freedom Granted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio favorite son, cleared the way today for the 58 Ohio delegates to the Republican National Convention to cast their first vote for the presidential nominee of their choice.

Shortly before his scheduled departure for San Francisco, Rhodes issued a statement expressing his views.

"During the caucus next Monday morning, those delegates who may wish to support their choice will be welcomed to express their beliefs and persuade their colleagues," he said.

"I am confident that every delegate will exercise individually that fine judgment which is characteristic of this splendid group of public officials and private citizens."

The governor declined comment, however, when asked his own preference for the nomination.

Rhodes expressed appreciation for the recent caucus stand of delegates to cast their first convention vote for him as favorite son.

Scranton Calls Birchers Alien

GOP Is Urged To Reject Group

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton urged today that the Republican platform specifically reject extremist groups that are "alien to our shores." He named the John Birch Society as one such group.

Scranton in testimony prepared for presentation to the Platform Committee, said the GOP has two alternatives in considering "the matter of extremist groups and their relationship to the Republican party."

One point of view is, he said, that such groups have some public support and include the kind of people needed in politics. But Scranton added:

"The other point of view with which I agree says that the radical, extremist groups are alien to our shores. I can find them no saving grace.

"Our platform should say so. Frankly, I cannot for one second conceive why you would hesitate to specifically name the John Birch Society as a prime example of this weird presence in America."

Scranton said that the GOP cannot "separate the Republican platform from the Republican presidential candidate."

He said the GOP should dismiss the theory "that the candidate is more important than the platform, and the theory that whomever the candidate, he can be made different by the platform."

Scranton also urged that the GOP write a plank that "confirms our traditional position favoring compulsory Social Security."

Scranton has the floor of the Republican platform committee, (Continued on Page Two)

Clouds Alter Sonic Booms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tests over Oklahoma City show that cloud layers, winds, turbulence, varying air temperatures or densities occasionally can greatly magnify sonic booms or deaden them to whispers, the Federal Aviation Agency reports.

This means that it is more difficult than sound engineers formerly believed to forecast accurately the volume of the sonic boom produced by a given airplane flying at a specified speed and altitude.

FAA engineers say they can still make such predictions accurately for ground areas directly below the sky track of a supersonic airplane.

The sonic boom distortions show up for the most part off to either side of the plane's course. For "off-course" communities a sonic boom can be greater than expected or so slight as almost to escape detection.

Polaris Test Firings End, Labeled Success

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Polaris A2 missile closed out its test firings at Cape Kennedy Wednesday with three straight successes.

The nuclear submarine John Adams launched the missiles on 1,500-mile flight down range from a submerged position about 30 miles offshore.

The successes gave the A2 a scorecard of 40 good shots in 46 firings.

Many Area Persons Plan To Attend Graham Crusade

Many Circleville and Pickaway County citizens will be on hand tomorrow night when the Billy Graham Central Ohio Crusade opens in Columbus.

So far 2,555 persons from this area have acquired reserved seats, according to a local committee headed by Dale DeLong. The Crusade meetings, scheduled July 10 through 19, will start at 7:30 p. m. each day in Jet Stadium.

DeLong's committee has been active the past few weeks assisting persons and churches in reserving seats for the Billy Graham sessions. All seats in the stadium are free.

Committee members have arranged for nine chartered buses on the nights of July 10, 12, 13, 14, 16 and 17. They also still have reserved seat tickets available for persons wanting to drive to the Crusade in autos. These free ducats are being distributed at Bingham Drug Store on W. Main St. and the Reid Inurance Agency on E. Main St.

DELONG said some churches plan to use their own buses each night to take their members and friends to the Crusade meetings.

Many others, in addition to the 2,555 already having reserved seats, are expected to attend each evening. These persons hope to get general admission tickets that will be available for the unreserved sections and the grass areas of the stadium.

There will be about 18,000 seats, plus the grass area of the stadium available for the overflow crowd. The Columbus Crusade Committee is making arrangements for capacity crowds of 30,000 each night.

Persons going on the chartered buses are reminded to meet in front of the First E.U.B. Church, 310 E. Main St., on the nights they have tickets for the Crusade. The bus will leave promptly at 5:30 p. m. each evening there is chartered buses.

Kansan Collects Powder Puff Prize

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Mary Ann Noah, Mission, Kan., winner of the 18th annual Powder Puff Derby, never wanted to fly, even though her husband has flown since 1938.

"I guess I was chicken," she said after the announcement of her victory Wednesday night. "My husband had a plane in business and he wanted me to learn. But I didn't think I was capable of mastering the art."

"He dragged me down to take a lesson and after the first hour I was hooked. I just fell in love with it."

Mrs. Noah's first lesson was late in 1959. She has competed in every Powder Puff Derby—a 2,573-mile cross-country airplane race for women—since 1960.

Winning the derby is a matter of getting the most out of a plane. Official standings are computed on the basis of total air time and a handicap based on the plane's capabilities.

"It was wonderful," said Mrs. Noah, a pretty blonde mother of four. "We were fortunate to get good winds on the second day out," she said. "We just whizzed from Winslow, Ariz., to Fayetteville, Ark."

Mrs. Noah, and her copilot, Mary Atkins, Wichita, Kan., a mother of three, were in the air some 17 hours.

Judy G. Wagner, Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., flying solo, finished second in the official derby standings and Frances S. Bera, Long Beach, Calif., a seven-time winner of the derby, came in third.

Only 48 planes finished out of the 61 that were to start the race last Saturday in Fresno, Calif. Three planes were scratched before the start, four quit en route, and six failed to complete the race by noon on Wednesday.

42 Refugees Flee from Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Forty-two refugees have arrived from Cuba this week in five small boats despite increased fortification of Cuban coasts.

Fishermen arriving from Havana Province Wednesday said a stretch of about 100 miles of the north coast is "solid with fortifications of concrete, wire, trenches, cannon, machineguns and tanks."

The Cuban Refugee Center said this week's arrivals brought to 7,000 the number of small boat escapees it has recorded since June 1961.

Baker Case Is Expected To Loom in GOP Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has closed its Bobby Baker investigation but its political overtones are expected to echo in this fall's election campaign as Republicans have charged "the full story has not been disclosed."

The Senate Rules Committee rang down the curtain on the seven-month probe into the wheelings and dealings of the former Senate aide with a report Wednesday saying he was "guilty of many gross improprieties."

But it left it up to the Justice Department to determine whether Baker should be prosecuted for any violations of criminal law.

A separate minority report turned in by the committee's three Republicans members accused the Democratic majority of ignoring their "rights" to have additional witnesses called including White House aide Walter Jenkins, and charged a "cover-up."

Jenkins figured in testimony by Don B. Reynolds, a local insurance agent with whom Baker was associated and who sold two $100,000 life insurance policies to President Johnson before he became president.

The GOP members, however, said they had no major criticism of the analysis of the evidence in the majority report. "It does reveal gross wrong doing, gross improprieties, and conduct which we believe to be unlawful," they said.

They said their criticism "is centered upon the fact that the majority refused to call all the witnesses and refused to get all the facts."

This Is GOP Year-Goldwater

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, front-running candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said today the party faces "a tough job" in the race against President Johnson—but added, "This is going to be a Republican year."

"United we will win," Goldwater said in an address prepared for an airport rally on his arrival in San Francisco for the Republican National Convention.

The Arizona senator made the transcontinental trip in a two-engine chartered plane, switching from a commercial airliner at the last minute.

"I expect that all Republicans will leave San Francisco to beat Lyndon B. Johnson and win the presidency of the United States," he said.

Goldwater was quoted Tuesday as saying "as of now" no Republican could beat Johnson. He added in a June 29 interview with the German magazine Der Spiegel, "On Election Day there is going to be another horse race."

"I know that we have a tough job ahead," he said today. "I also know that this is going to be a Republican year all across the country, from statehouse to courthouse and from Congress to the White House."

"I know that you are going to come out of this convention united and fighting — not with each other but with the Johnson foreign policy, its phony fiscal policy and its attempt to spend its way to political power," Goldwater said.

He added that "so-called popularity polls" will not win reelection for Johnson.

"I am here today because of only one thing," Goldwater said, "the support of the people in

Cleric Sees Try To Hush Fact of Death

WASHINGTON (AP)—A New York clergyman said today that although most morticians perform their task honestly there are others "who must be stigmatized as ghoulish grave diggers" who prey on the living through the dead.

The Rev. Howard A. Johnson, canon theologian of the Cathedral Church of St. John the Divine (Protestant Episcopal), New York, told a Senate investigation into the funeral business that his criticism was not so much an attack on morticians "as it is upon us, the living."

"By our colossal ignorance of that which is taught in the church and in the synagogue," he said, "and by our tearful sentimentality in the face of death, (we) are guilty of leading some of the undertakers into temptation."

Most of America, he said, seems to be involved in a vast conspiracy to hush up the fact of death.

"Grief," he said, "causes the threshold of sales resistance to be low."

To show some of the facts of costs, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee, released at today's final hearing a chart showing that costs of identical funeral services rose sharply as the price of the casket increased.

Hearing Is Postponed In Death of Ex-Ohioan

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — A court hearing has been set back until July 22 for Robert Crafton, 32, charged with manslaughter in the fatal shooting of Judith Ann Houze McDowell, 19, formerly of Blanchester, Ohio.

Defense attorneys asked that the hearing be continued Wednesday after Crafton pleaded innocent. Crafton and witnesses say Mrs. McDowell was shot accidentally Tuesday as he handed her a pistol while visiting in her apartment.

'Favorite Son' Role Dropped

First Ballot Vote Freedom Granted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes, Ohio favorite son, cleared the way today for the 58 Ohio delegates to the Republican National Convention to cast their first vote for the presidential nominee of their choice.

Shortly before his scheduled departure for San Francisco, Rhodes issued a statement expressing his views.

"During the caucus next Monday morning, those delegates who may wish to support their choice will be welcomed to express their beliefs and persuade their colleagues," he said.

"I am confident that every delegate will exercise individually that fine judgment which is characteristic of this splendid group of public officials and private citizens."

The governor declined comment, however, when asked his own preference for the nomination.

Rhodes expressed appreciation for the recent caucus stand of delegates to cast their first convention vote for him as favorite son.

Scranton Calls Birchers Alien

GOP Is Urged To Reject Group

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton urged today that the Republican platform specifically reject extremist groups that are "alien to our shores." He named the John Birch Society as one such group.

Scranton in testimony prepared for presentation to the Platform Committee, said the GOP has two alternatives in considering "the matter of extremist groups and their relationship to the Republican party."

One point of view is, he said, that such groups have some public support and include the kind of people needed in politics. But Scranton added:

"The other point of view with which I agree says that the radical, extremist groups are alien to our shores. I can find in them no saving grace."

"Our platform should say so. Frankly, I cannot for one second conceive why you would hesitate to specifically name the John Birch Society as a prime example of this weird presence in America."

Scranton said that the GOP cannot "separate the Republican platform from the Republican presidential candidate."

He said the GOP should dismiss the theory "that the candidate is more important than the platform, and the theory that whomever the candidate, he can be made different by the platform."

Scranton also urged that the GOP write a plank that "confirms our traditional position favoring compulsory Social Security."

Scranton has the floor of a Republican platform committee, (Continued on Page Two)

Clouds Alter Sonic Booms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tests over Oklahoma City show that cloud layers, winds, turbulence, varying air temperatures or densities occasionally can greatly magnify sonic booms or deaden them to whispers, the Federal Aviation Agency reports.

This means that it is more difficult than sound engineers formerly believed to forecast accurately the volume of the sonic boom produced by a given airplane flying at a specified speed and altitude.

FAA engineers say they can still make such predictions accurately for ground areas directly below the sky track of a supersonic airplane.

The sonic boom distortions show up for the most part off to either side of the plane's course. For "off-course" communities a sonic boom can be greater than expected or so slight as almost to escape detection.

Polaris Test Firings End, Labeled Success

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Polaris A2 missile closed out its test firings at Cape Kennedy Wednesday with three straight successes.

The nuclear submarine John Adams launched the missiles on 1,500-mile flight down range from a submerged position about 30 miles offshore.

The successes gave the A2 a scorecard of 40 good shots in 46 firings.

Many Area Persons Plan To Attend Graham Crusade

Many Circleville and Pickaway County citizens will be on hand tomorrow night when the Billy Graham Central Ohio Crusade opens in Columbus.

So far 2,555 persons from this area have acquired reserved seats, according to a local committee headed by Dale DeLong. The Crusade meetings, scheduled July 10 through 19, will start at 7:30 p. m. each day in Jet Stadium.

DeLong's committee has been active the past few weeks assisting persons and churches in reserving seats for the Billy Graham sessions. All seats in the stadium are free.

Committee members have arranged for nine chartered buses on the nights of July 10, 12, 13, 14, 16 and 17. They also still have reserved seat tickets available for persons wanting to drive to the Crusade in autos. These free ducats are being distributed at Bingman Drug Store on W. Main St. and the Reid Insurance Agency on E. Main St.

There will be about 18,000 seats, plus the grass area of the stadium available for the overflow crowd. The Columbus Crusade Committee is making arrangements for capacity crowds of 30,000 each night.

Persons going on the chartered buses are reminded to meet in front of the First E.U.B. Church, 310 E. Main St., on the nights they have tickets for the Crusade. The bus will leave promptly at 5:30 p. m. each evening there is chartered buses.

Billy Graham Arrives in City

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham arrived in Columbus today by train from New York and conceded his 10-day crusade in Ohio may have some competition.

It will come from televised proceedings of the Republican Convention in San Francisco and the Professional Golfers' Association championship next week at Columbus Country Club, he predicted.

But, the tall, soft-spoken evangelist added, "At least they don't play the PGA at night."

Nightly meetings are scheduled at Columbus Jets' baseball stadium through the July 10-19 Graham crusade.

Army Sentences Former Captain

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Capt. Alfred E. Svenson was sentenced today to seven years at hard labor for desertion and theft of a jeep in which he drove to Communist East Germany 14 months ago.

Svenson, 31, of Scranton, Pa., also was dismissed from the U.S. Army. He spent a year in the Communist country before being expelled as "unfit to be granted asylum."

The Lithuanian-born officer drove the jeep across the Iron Curtain on May 4, 1963, while participating in maneuvers near the border between East and West Germany.

Communist authorities returned Svenson and the jeep last May 7.

Protection for Rights Aides Demanded in Dixie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Explosions which injured two civil rights workers in McComb, Miss., have touched off demands for protection of youths involved in civil rights work in Mississippi. About 500 youths from other states are involved.

Forty-one parents of youths from northern California decided to ask President Johnson, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California and their congressmen to assure protection for the young civil rights workers in Mississippi.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation sent an explosives expert to McComb to help with the investigation. There have been two other similar explosions but no arrests.

An avowed foe of the newly passed civil rights act was shot in the arm in Columbia, Tenn., Wednesday night.

Plo F. Fleming, a candidate for Congress from Tennessee's 6th District, reported two Negroes in a passing car fired two shots at him as he drove home from a speaking engagement. He was not believed seriously injured.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., a Negro educator, Claude C. Bond, was named coordinator of general education for the Chattanooga school system. It is believed to be the first time a Negro has attained such a position in a Southern school system.

In Danville, Va., directors of the city's Memorial Hospital ordered the facility integrated. The first step taken was approval of two Negro doctors for staff privileges.

In San Francisco, Negro leaders said that more than 50,000 are expected to parade Sunday in opposition to the possible nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

The search continued in the Philadelphia, Miss., area for three civil rights workers who disappeared June 21.

In St. Augustine, Fla., Negroes were refused service at two of 29 restaurants they visited.

Twenty state troopers moved into Selma, Ala., to relieve local law enforcement officers who have had little rest in recent days. About 70 have been arrested in Selma, where Negroes are conducting an intense voter registration campaign.

Without elaborating, Rhodes' statement indicated to associates that he was willing to forego the honor of a complimentary vote for the presidential nomination.

Followers of Sen. Barry Goldwater have said all along that more than half the votes in Ohio's 58-member delegation would go for him on the second ballot. They have expressed the hope of release from the recent caucus decision to cast a complimentary first vote for Rhodes, but nevertheless agreed to stand by that decision at the convention.

Others in the Ohio delegation showed a leaning towards Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, Goldwater's only apparent rival for the nomination.

The most recent Associated Press poll of the Ohio GOP delegation indicated 15 sure votes for Goldwater, 10 for Scranton with the rest undecided.

Distinguished Senators Wrestle on Capitol Hill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee approved 16-1 today the nomination of LeRoy Collins as director of the Community Relations Service under the new civil rights law.

But the committee did not obtain a quorum to vote until after an impromptu, friendly wrestling match in the hall outside the committee room between Sens. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., and Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex.

Thurmond, the only senator to oppose Collins, prevented the 17-member committee from obtaining a quorum Wednesday when only eight other members showed up and he refused to enter the meeting room.

Today, Senate leaders had rounded up nine members not counting Thurmond, but the South Carolinian remained in a hall of the Senate Office Building outside the committee room to see if a quorum did materialize.

Yarborough came through the hall on his way to the meeting at a time when only six other members were inside. He grabbed at Thurmond and said, "Come on, Strom, help us make a quorum."

Thurmond pushed him back and, after a short scuffle, the two senators, both 61, agreed to a wrestling match with the understanding Thurmond would enter the meeting room if he lost and that Yarborough would remain outside if he lost.

Miller, 47, is a Roman Catholic and chairman of the Republican National Committee. Ford, like Goldwater, is an Episcopalian.

The Goldwater sources said that as of now, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, Goldwater's leading opponent for the presidential nomination, won't get the nod for the No. 2 spot "unless the convention forces him down our throat."

The word that "nothing has been decided" was relayed Wednesday night from Goldwater by his press aide, Tony Smith.

Goldwater goes before the GOP platform committee Friday.

Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign director, said he would not object to a platform plank criticizing extremism on both the right and the left—but not singling out any organization.

Scranton has called for a specific disavowal of the John Birch Society as an extremist group. The John Birch Society describes itself as an "educational army dedicated to opposing the Communist conspiracy."

Goldwater has steadfastly refused to disavow John Birch Society support, saying that it is operating within its constitutional rights.

The senator has said he disagrees with the society's leaders, but will not repudiate anyone who is not a Communist.

Donald Stevens, Route 2, Laurelville, fell from a nine-foot ladder at a friend's home and struck his head. He was treated for a laceration on the top of his head.

Mary Pence, Town St., fell into a hole at home and injured her right foot.

Larry Manley Jr., 27, Circleville Motel, had a piece of metal removed from his left bicep. He received the injury while working on a construction site southeast of Laurelville.

Billy Graham Arrives in City

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham arrived in Columbus today by train from New York and conceded his 10-day crusade in Ohio may have some competition.
It will come from televised proceedings of the Republican Convention in San Francisco and the Professional Golfers' Association championship next week at Columbus Country Club, he predicted.
But, the tall, soft-spoken evangelist added, "At least they don't play the PGA at night."
Nightly meetings are scheduled at Columbus Jets' baseball stadium through the July 10-19 Graham crusade.

Army Sentences Former Captain

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Capt. Alfred E. Svenson was sentenced today to seven years at hard labor for desertion and theft of a jeep in which he drove to Communist East Germany 14 months ago.
Svenson, 31, of Scranton, Pa., also was dismissed from the U.S. Army. He spent a year in the Communist country before being expelled as "unfit to be granted asylum."
The Lithuanian-born officer drove the jeep across the Iron Curtain on May 4, 1963, while participating in maneuvers near the border between East and West Germany.
Communist authorities returned Svenson and the jeep last May 7.

Protection for Rights Aides Demanded in Dixie

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Explosions which injured two civil rights workers in McComb, Miss., have touched off demands for protection of youths involved in civil rights work in Mississippi. About 500 youths from other states are involved.

Forty-one parents of youths from northern California decided to ask President Johnson, Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California and their congressmen to assure protection for the young civil rights workers in Mississippi.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation sent an explosives expert to McComb to help with the investigation. There have been two other similar explosions but no arrests.

An avowed foe of the newly passed civil rights act was shot in the arm in Columbia, Tenn., Wednesday night.

Flo F. Fleming, a candidate for Congress from Tennessee's 6th District, reported two Negroes in a passing car fired two shots at him as he drove home from a speaking engagement. He was not believed seriously injured.

In Chattanooga, Tenn., a Negro educator, Claude C. Bond, was named coordinator of general education for the Chattanooga school system. It is believed to be the first time a Negro has attained such a position in a Southern school system.

In Danville, Va., directors of the city's Memorial Hospital ordered the facility integrated. The first step taken was approval of two Negro doctors for staff privileges.

In San Francisco, Negro leaders said that more than 50,000 are expected to parade Sunday in opposition to the possible nomination of Sen. Barry Goldwater for president.

The search continued in the Philadelphia, Miss., area for three civil rights workers who disappeared June 21.

In St. Augustine, Fla., Negroes were refused service at two of 29 restaurants they visited.

Twenty state troopers moved into Selma, Ala., to relieve local law enforcement officers who have had little rest in recent days. About 70 have been arrested in Selma, where Negroes are conducting an intense voter registration campaign.

their confidence and as an endorsement of my administration as governor of Ohio," he said.

Without elaborating, Rhodes' statement indicated to associates that he was willing to forego the honor of a complimentary vote for the presidential nomination.

Followers of Sen. Barry Goldwater have said all along that more than half the votes in Ohio's 58-member delegation would go for him on the second ballot. They have expressed the hope of release from the recent caucus decision to cast a complimentary first vote for Rhodes, but nevertheless agreed to stand by that decision at the convention.

Others in the Ohio delegation showed a leaning towards Pennsylvania Gov. William Scranton, Goldwater's only apparent rival for the nomination.

The most recent Associated Press poll of the Ohio GOP delegation indicated 15 sure votes for Goldwater, 10 for Scranton with the rest undecided.

Scranton Calls

where his outnumbered followers have been trying to build a launching pad for the kind of superthrust takeoff Scranton would have to achieve to catch up with Sen. Barry Goldwater by the time the convention votes next week.

The Pennsylvania's supporters have tried various gambits, all designed to hobble the front-running Arizona senator, but there was no sign they had made much impression on the platform committee. Most of its 105 members favor Goldwater.

The Scrantonites kept thrusting, however, and some talked of a fight over the platform on the convention floor if they lose in the committee.

Other points stressed by the governor:

—The party should pledge support for an increased role for the states in dealing with housing, mass transportation and urban renewal.

—Medical assistance to the aged through federal legislation should also be endorsed, but not through financing by the Social Security.

—The GOP should urge "an antipoverty and full-employment program which would be aimed on a pin-point basis at specific causes" of evils existing in the community.

On the question of civil rights, Scranton urged that the new law signed by President Johnson "should be cited as another step toward America's promise to the world, implicit in our Constitution, of equal rights and opportunities for all."

The governor did not specifically recommend that the Platform Committee back the civil rights law as constitutional.

"And we should not stop with the 1964 act—good as it is. We should pledge ourselves to act to remove the many frustrations that remain to deprive minorities in the fields of education, employment and housing," he added.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to edge forward early this afternoon in moderate trading.

Steels took the lead but lost some of their gains around midday.

Brokers said the market continue to be supported by generally favorable business news. They are expecting a flow of corporate reports of improved earnings.

RCA, which Wednesday reported record profits for the second quarter and the half, advanced a fraction.

U.S. Steel and Jones & Laughlin gained about half a point. Bethlehem was off slightly.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up .5 to 318.0 with industrials up .9, rails off .1 and utilities up .4.

At noon, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials had gained 0.47 to 845.92.

Barry's Wife Is 55
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's wife, Peggy, observed her 55th birthday Wednesday. She spent the day quietly at the Goldwaters' hill-top home overlooking Phoenix.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Commerce Committee approved 16-1 today the nomination of LeRoy Collins as director of the Community Relations Service under the new civil rights law.

But the committee did not obtain a quorum to vote until after an impromptu, friendly wrestling match in the hall outside the committee room between Sens. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., and Ralph W. Yarborough, D-Tex.

Thurmond, the only senator to oppose Collins, prevented the 17-member committee from obtaining a quorum Wednesday when only eight other members showed up and he refused to enter the meeting room.

Today, Senate leaders had rounded up nine members not counting Thurmond, but the South Carolinian remained in a hall of the Senate Office Building outside the committee room to see if a quorum did materialize.

Yarborough came through the hall on his way to the meeting at a time when only six other members were inside. He grabbed at Thurmond and said, "Come on, Strom, help us make a quorum."

Thurmond pushed him back and, after a short scuffle, the two senators, both 61, agreed to a wrestling match with the understanding Thurmond would enter the meeting room if he lost and that Yarborough would remain outside if he lost.

They removed their coats and engaged in a 10-minute, inconclusive match in the corridor although Thurmond appeared at one point to be pinning his adversary.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., committee chairman, finally came out and ended the affair with a peremptory, "Break it up, boys."

The two senators shook hands and Yarborough commented, "I had a weight advantage but he had the advantage of that guerrilla training."

Thurmond, a major general in the Army Reserves, always has prided himself on his physical fitness.

At one point Thurmond seized Yarborough's leg and dumped him on the floor but at other times the Texas senator seemed to have the advantage.

Before Magnuson succeeded in stopping the match, Sens. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and Winston L. Prouty, R-Vt., two other committee members, had tried to do so unsuccessfully.

Lausche told the two men he feared one might have a heart attack but they dismissed this with laughs.

When Magnuson ended the 10-minute engagement, Yarborough was on his back but grabbing for a better hold on his adversary.

sources said the choice boils down to one between Miller and Ford.

Miller, 47, is a Roman Catholic and chairman of the Republican National Committee. Ford, like Goldwater, is an Episcopalian.

The Goldwater sources said that as of now, Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, Goldwater's leading opponent for the presidential nomination, won't get the nod for the No. 2 spot "unless the convention forces him down our throat."

The word that "nothing has been decided" was relayed Wednesday night from Goldwater by his press aide, Tony Smith.

Goldwater goes before the GOP platform committee Friday.

Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign director, said he would not object to a platform plank criticizing extremism on both the right and the left—but not singling out any organization.

Scranton has called for a specific disavowal of the John Birch Society as an extremist group. The John Birch Society describes itself as an "educational army dedicated to opposing the Communist conspiracy."

Goldwater has steadfastly refused to disavow John Birch Society support, saying that it is operating within its constitutional rights.

The senator has said he disagrees with the society's leaders, but will not repudiate anyone who is not a Communist.

Bobby Baker Rapped by Senate Panel

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Rules Committee accused Bobby Baker Wednesday of "many gross improprieties," saying he used his position as secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority to feather his own nest.

A report submitted to the Senate by the committee's Democratic majority said the manner in which Baker, 36, concealed his business and financial dealings provided convincing proof that he was fully aware of their impropriety.

The committee's three Republican members filed a minority report accusing the Democrats of a "cover-up," protesting among other things that White House aide Walter Jenkins had been protected, as they put it, from being called as a witness.

But while the GOP members said they could not concur in the majority report because "the investigation has never been completed," they said the evidence did reveal "gross wrongdoing, gross improprieties, and conduct which we believe to be unlawful."

The report filed by the majority described Baker as "first of all an opportunist," who was available to his friends and acquaintances and they to him.

"In general," the report said, "he seized upon every opportunity, and there were many, to further his wealth-seeking ambitions."

delegation phones are in.

The major business of erecting the platform area, however, is only half completed. Workmen are still erecting partitions off the floor for various activities.

Members of the convention arrangements committee made their way through the lumber and wires Tuesday to assess the progress.

"It's working out very well," said Clare Shank of St. Petersburg, Fla., a GOP national committeewoman and a former assistant national chairman.

Mrs. Shank said she was delighted that so little room for the 1,308 delegates had been sacrificed in enlarging the platform space allowed for the 1956

Republican convention in the same hall.

Back at the headquarters hotel, there were happy tidings for people who'd like to attend the "GOParty Gala" convention eve but don't have $500 in cash for a ticket.

Just charge it, the sponsors said.

More specifically, the national Republican senatorial and congressional committees announced they'll accept credit cards for the foremost social event of the convention.

What will the guests get for their $500?

—An engraved ticket, the size of a calling card, engraved in silver and blue, and packaged in a dark blue leather jewelry

box. The box also will contain a tiny silver pin in the shape of the Capitol dome.

—A chance to get a close look at all party presidential possibilities and dignitaries and to mix with what advance publicity bills as numerous movie and television personalities.

—An elaborate buffet and drinks, dancing to two orchestras and banjo entertainment.

Proceeds will help finance election expenses for Republican candidates for the Senate and House in the fall campaigns.

Smart Blondes in Style Now

NEW YORK (AP) — Dumb blondes are out of date in Hollywood. Smart blondes are in style.

Among the smartest at the moment is Tippi Hedren, who looks like a younger sister of Grace Kelly and who just got a free $50,000 wardrobe from her mentor, Alfred Hitchcock.

That plump Englishman is as good a judge of feminine acting talent as he is of plot. Among the ladies whose careers he has helped are Ingrid Bergman, Grace Kelly, Eva Marie Saint, Shirley MacLaine, and Vera Miles.

Not too long ago he saw Tippi in a television commercial, liked her, gave her a $25,000 screen test and hired her on the spot to star in his last picture, "The Birds."

"She looks ladylike," said Hitchcock, "a quality now quite rare."

Hollywood exists on the Cinderella theme, but for a television model to step into immediate stardom was more than some West Coast old-timers could take.

Hitchcock was satisfied. He has starred Tippi again in "Marnie," a film based on an English novel about a girl who is a compulsive thief.

Taking no chances on Miss Hedren's Minnesota accent, the old master moved the story into an American setting, and concentrated his camera as much on her loveliness as on the plot.

"Hitch gave me the complete wardrobe in the picture as a reward for my performance," said Tippi. "It was designed by Edith Head and must have cost $50,000 originally."

Her nickname is a variation of "Tupsa," a Swedish term for little girl. Hitchcock preferred it to her real name, which is Nathalie.

True to the traditions of her

Swedish ancestry, Miss Hedren is enamored with two virtues—the enjoyment of hard work and the pursuit of hard cash.

She is an easy-going, friendly girl who at 29 isn't swept off her feet by success because she has worked as a model since she was 13.

Hitchcock is so confident of her ability that he has signed her for two more films, a rare step for him.

Pretty as she is, Tippi has no pretty illusions.

"This is very much a business with me. The idea of being an actress didn't appeal to me. I knew how rough a road it was, and I was doing very well as a model."

"But I find it exciting. Stardom has made a big difference in my life."

"I've gone into real estate. I'm buying and renting houses, and hope to buy a property to subdivide soon."

Barry and the Indians

By John Chamberlain

A visitor at the Northern Cheyenne Indian Reservation at Lame Deer, Mont., is having dinner with the superintendent of the reservation. He notices that the superintendent's teenage daughter is in tears. The girl has been telling her mother that she is being boycotted by her high school mates because her two best friends are full-blooded Cheyenne Indians.

In Western New York State, the Kinzua Dam, which is designed to impound the waters of the Allegheny River, is just about set for use. Originally, the gates were to be closed this July. But some saving remnant of decency on the part of the authorities that built the dam has resulted in a postponement of the shutting of the gates. When they are finally closed, the Seneca Indians, who were guaranteed possession of their lands "in perpetuity" by the Treaty of 1794, will be flooded out of their Complanter Reservation.

These are two examples of discrimination as it strikes at the Indians, those first Americans. Civil rights? Who cares? The Indian vote doesn't matter.

Ironically, in view of the drubbing he has taken because of his vote against what he regards as the unconstitutional Civil Rights bill, Garry Goldwater does care about the Indians. His fight for the Navajos and the Hopis in Arizona was part of his wider struggle to desegregate local airport facilities, moving picture houses and the state's National Guard. For his general work in Arizona desegregation the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People once welcomed Garry Goldwater as a lifetime member of the organization. The NAACP retracted its old opinion of Goldwater the other day when it urged the membership and all Negroes to oppose him for the Presidency.

This sort of politics is short-sighted, to say the least, for it overlooks the fundamental strand in the Goldwater personality, the strand of honor. If Barry Goldwater says he will do his best to enforce the Civil Rights legislation if he is elected President, you may be sure he will. He has been called a man of the eighteenth century. Well, in the eighteenth century they believed in honor. It would be a better country if we had more eighteenth century men around.

On his left hand Barry Goldwater bears a tattoo consisting of four dots. These represent a tribute to him from the Indians, signifying that Goldwater has shown the highest skill in Indian tribal dancing. If he, like Calvin Coolidge of old, were to put on an Indian headdress, it would not in his case be hokum. He even speaks some Navajo and Hopi.

Goldwater earned the respect and affection of the Arizona Indians because he went out of his way to protect and enlarge both their rights and their opportunities. In the nineteen thirties he set up a trading post on a Navajo reservation. He used to ferry in goods to the Indians by plane; indeed, the only crackup in his long career as an air pilot occurred on a takeoff at the reservation. For a long time, any plane, to a Navajo, was a "Goldwater." The name of Goldwater's home is Be Nun I Kin, which is Navajo for "house on the hill."

As for Indian rights, Goldwater was instrumental in setting up voting districts for the Indians in Arizona. He also got some land set aside for the Cocopah Indians near Yuma. He would like to see a bill passed in the U. S. Senate which would allow the Navajos to lease land for ninety-nine years instead of the ten years that are allowed at present.

The American Indian doesn't constitute a pressure group, and he will play little or no part standing up for minorities will either at the San Francisco convention or in the autumn election. But the Negroes, whose votes do count, might remember that Goldwater's record for

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—American business is riding a profit wave as spectacular as any challenged by the surfboard set.

A flood of earnings reports for the second quarter is starting. Early tallies and estimates reveal only a small minority of companies that aren't doing better than a year ago. Many are reporting new highs for the quarter. Some are setting records for any three-month period in their history.

The good news is encouraging the bulls in the stock market. Also gladdened are the hearts of shareholders who hope for further increases in dividends.

The U. S. Treasury will be a big winner, too. Even at the lowered tax rates on corporate incomes, the record gross earnings will mean a flow of tax receipts. The biggest-than-expected jump in profits in the first three months of the year is being extended through the latest period.

Earliest reports are from corporations with fiscal years ending ahead of the calendar year, so that their second quarter books were closed before June 30. But the nation's banks are reporting for the April - May-June quarter and most of them show gains over last year. Officials of many of the large corporations yet to report formally also are on record as estimating that the gain over last year will be substantial.

Among the big companies already reporting increased earnings are American Telephone & Telegraph, Firestone Tire & Rubber, Douglas Aircraft. Preliminary estimates also put Du Pont and Parke, Davis & Co. in this group. Most steel companies are expected to join the list by the end of the month. The big motor companies are considered sure members of the club.

Retail chains reporting so far are almost all in the plus column. Included are J. C. Penney, R. H. Macy, Federated Department Stores, Bullock's, Marshall Field, May Department Stores, Associated Dry Goods, Allied Stores, Russeks, and Lane Bryant.

Executives of a number of the nation's largest corporations are on record as predicting that the rate of the profit increases may slow a bit in coming months but that the figures will stay well above those of a year ago.

They, like many stock traders already have put 1964 down in the books as the most profitable, in terms of dollar totals, in American business history.

You're Telling Me!

A SIOUX CITY, Iowa angler reports catching a bullhead catfish, complete with four legs. This incident would, no doubt, start another sea monster scare except for one thing—the critter is only six inches long.

That four-legged Iowa bullhead would seem, however, to have a running start on becoming the best fish story of the year.

It would take 2,000 years to spend a billion dollars at the rate of $1,000 a day—Factographs. We'd like to test that statement!

The first license to sell coffee in the U. S. was granted to a Bostonian, declares an historian. A member of the famous Tea Party, no doubt.

For experiments to determine why the stuff sticks to walls and ceilings, a Penn State engineer is creating synthetic dirt. Just as though we don't have enough of the stuff around already!

Electronic slot machines are being given a try by a Las Vegas Nev., establishment. Good grief! Even the old-fashioned, mechanical one-armed bandits have always proved smarter than any human we know!

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Can underarm deodorants and anti-perspirants be irritating when used every day?

Some skins can be sensitive or allergic to these preparations. Sometimes changing from one brand to another can relieve these skin irritations.

Usually they are absolutely safe and extremely effective, especially when bathing with soap and water precedes their use. No deodorant can be a substitute for regular bathing and personal cleanliness.

Is there a difference between heat stroke and heat exhaustion? What can be done when they occur?

They are technically different, but the distinction is so subtle that it can be made only by someone with expert training and experience.

If a victim needs help, loosen his clothing and have him lie down in a cool, shady spot. Gently sponge face and hands with cool applications. Do not give victims any brandy or other alcohol. Call for professional help.

Assure the patient that a doctor is on the way. Relieving the victim's anxiety is one of the most beneficial forms of first aid.

Don't try to be heroic or overzealous in your assistance. A basic rule for all first aid is to do only what is essential and get professional medical assistance as quickly as possible. Untrained, well-meaning rescuers can actually make a condition worse by attempting to do too much.

What can be done for a sprained ankle?

The immediate application of ice or cold compresses is beneficial in keeping the swelling down to a minimum and relieving ing some of the discomfort. Keep "off your feet" until the exact nature and extent of the injury is determined by a physician.

What may seem to be a simple sprain may prove to be a dislocation or fracture. For this reason it is unwise to neglect an injury or delay examination by a doctor.

It is true that milk does not have to be warmed before feeding to an infant?

It has been successfully proven that babies and young children flourish just as well on cold milk.

It was found that tired mothers and fathers, too, flourish without the added burden of "cooking" at three o'clock in the morning.

preceding that of Goldwater by a day, was noisy but not of giant proportions.

The opponents of the Goldwater conservative stance had produced most of their top-rank figures — including Govs. George Romney of Michigan and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and former ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge — without seeming to have made a perceptible dent in the delegate strength gained by the Arizona senator.

The lone personality who is credited with any ability to change the result—former President Dwight D. Eisenhower—is not due until the weekend. But his role of neutrality in the presidential contest appeared to have been established beyond alteration.

Scranton carried his case to the convention platform committee. He said he would appeal for a strong civil rights plank and for a declaration against any type of "extremism."

His forum was a 105-member group that contains a majority of Goldwater supporters. And there was no indication that the committee will produce any statement that Goldwater could not accept or any that would open the way for any successful challenge on the convention floor.

Tower said he doesn't believe there will be any floor fight because he is confident Goldwater will accept any "reasonable" platform that the committee drafts under the guidance of Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., its chairman.

In the minds of most delegates about the only thing left to be settled by next week's convention is the choice of a vice presidential nominee.

Rep. William E. Miller of New York, chairman of the GOP National Committee, obviously had an okay from the Goldwater forces to try to sew up this job and he was working hard at it.

One veteran member of the national committee who is backing Goldwater said he and other strategists canvassed the field in recent meetings and had come to the conclusion that as a Roman Catholic, an Easterner and a resident of upstate New York, Miller is the most available candidate.

One highly placed convention official said that when Goldwater asks his advice about the matter—as the Arizona senator can be expected to do—he will urge that second place on the ticket be offered first to Scranton.

Scranton has said he won't take it. But politicians have been known to change their minds under the stress of convention events. This official, who asked that he not be quoted by name, summed up the situation this way:

"There is the chance that Scranton might take it. His term as governor continues for two more years and he has no place to go politically then because he can't succeed himself. If he took the vice presidential nomination, he wouldn't be hurt politically even if Goldwater were defeated. In defeat the top of the ticket gets all of the blame, as the vice presidential nominee, Scranton would be in a strong position to bid for the presidential nomination in 1968."

Firm Low Bidder
An apparent low bid of $78,338 for the paving of .227 miles of Route 140 in Scioto County was submitted by the V and Y Construction Co. of Circleville, it was announced by the Ohio Department of Highways.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, July 9, the 191st day of 1964. There are 175 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1916, the first merchant submarine to cross the Atlantic and the first to make the voyage in time of war, Germany's Deutschland, arrived in Chesapeake Bay.

On this date, In 1850, the nation's 12th president, Zachary Taylor, died after serving 16 months in office.

In 1940, the Duke of Windsor was appointed governor of the Bahamas.

In 1944, Japanese resistance ended on Saipan, in the Marianas Islands.

Ten years ago — Fifty-thousand persons were left homeless by the flooding Danube River in southern Germany and Austria; at least 15 died.

Five years ago — The U.N. special representative on the Hungarian question, Sir Leslie Monro of New Zealand, disclosed he had been denied entry into Hungary.

One year ago — An agreement to merge Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo to create the Federation of Malaysia was signed in London.

Landing Gear Fails
On Experimental Plane
DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Thirteen persons aboard a four-engine transport plane escaped injury Wednesday when the landing gear failed during a landing demonstration at nearby Wright Field.

The plane, called the STOL, was being evaluated by the Air Force when the accident occurred. The plane skidded 350 feet after touching down and the No. 4 engine caught fire briefly.

When the plane came to a halt, the 13 aboard—technicians and Air Force personnel—scrambled out a side door.

Area Farmer Buys
Milking Shorthorn
Allen Matthew Goode, Route 4, has purchased a heifer calf, Buttercup's Pride P310809, from Fred Hulse of Circleville.

The new animal is a registered Milking Shorthorn. A record of the transfer of ownership has been made by the American Milking Shorthorn Society at Springfield, Mo.

The Eiffel Tower was a temporary structure, completed for the Paris Exposition of 1889.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Sen. Barry Goldwater act like men who have it made. Yet, a year ago, Johnson couldn't have dreamed of it. And Goldwater probably wouldn't have bet on it.

Johnson, with the Democratic presidential nomination locked up, is playing mum in this month of July while the Republicans are making up their minds on someone to match him.

Goldwater, looking surer of his Republican presidential nomination than anyone in sight has been letting the anti-Goldwater forces do the talking as they barge around looking for support that seems slow in coming.

It wasn't like this for Johnson or Goldwater a year ago.

Then President Kennedy, in full health and with no opposition in sight, had no problem about being renominated this year. The best Johnson could have hoped for was getting re-elected vice president for another four years.

Maybe then, at the end of two terms for Kennedy, he might put in his bid for the presidency.

This time a year ago, Goldwater fans were working around the country for him. And he himself had drummed up a lot of Republican support with his fund-raising speeches for the party. But he was still saying he wasn't a candidate.

It wasn't clear who might be. Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon had damaged himself by losing his race for the governorship of California in 1962. And New York's Gov. Nelson

A. Rockefeller, while suspected of presidential ambitions, had no inside track. Yet, Goldwater and Rockefeller were the only real prospects in sight.

Goldwater in the spring of 1963 had commented on talk that he and Rockefeller were the two main Republican hopes: "If we're so hard up that we have only Rockefeller and Goldwater, we're in a hell of a shape."

This was while he was still saying all he wanted was re-election to the Senate. His chances must have begun to look better to him as the summer wore on.

In September 1963, it was learned he had reserved the entire 15th floor in a hotel in San Francisco for this July when the Republican convention was being held there.

Yet, a little more than a week later, he was telling newsmen who asked if he was going to try for the presidency: "I've said a thousand times I'm going to run for the Senate, nothing more."

On Jan. 3, 1964, he announced his candidacy. And meanwhile, the assassination of Kennedy last November thrust Johnson into the presidency with no one to challenge his nomination at the Democratic convention next month.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

It's a Vicious Circle!

DEAR ABBY: My husband positively refuses to tip anyone unless (as he puts it) they have "earned a reward" for doing something special for him. He says waiters are paid to serve customers, doormen are paid to open doors, taxi drivers are paid to drive, and barbers are paid to cut hair, and he's sick of all these people with their hands out. When we leave a restaurant, if looks could kill we'd both be dead. I get terribly embarrassed, but it doesn't seem to bother my husband a bit. How can I get it through his head that "tipping" is an accepted custom, and people who do not tip are considered strange?

NON-TIPPER'S WIFE
DEAR WIFE: Many jobs (bellboys, waiters, doormen, hairdressers, manicurists) are considered attractive only because of the "tips" that go with them. And the salaries paid take "tips" into account. So in many cases, a tip is more than a fringe benefit. It is bread and butter. Granted, no establishment should expect the customers to pay their help, but until the system is changed, why punish the working folks?

HATPIN NEXT TIME—Arrested for carrying a concealed weapon after stabbing and fighting-off a would-be rapist with a small knife, Arlene Del Fava, 27, a secretary, relaxes in Queens, N. Y., after being paroled. She said from now on she will carry her grandmother's "weapon"—a hatpin. Harold Model, a sailor, was arrested and charged with felonious assault and attempted rape.

DEAR ABBY: I am a middle-aged man in love with a woman a few years my junior. We are both mature people, we both have had a previous marriage. She and I are completely congenial. We like the same things, have similar educational backgrounds and can talk for hours without running out of conversation. I love her deeply, but she says she only "likes" me, she doesn't love me—and so no marriage. All I can do is hope and wait, but she says I'm wasting my time, that she knows her feelings for me won't change. Any suggestions?

UP AGAINST A STONE WALL
DEAR UP AGAINST: Believe her. Her answer might change, but her feelings are not likely to. Then you could have a visit who "likes" but does not "love" you. That would be dandy if it's only companionship you're both looking for—but don't expect more.

DEAR ABBY: Do you think it is proper to refer to a single woman who has never been married as an "old maid"? I have a dear friend who has never married. She is attractive, popular, self-supporting and nobody's fool, and I am outraged everytime I hear someone call her an "old maid." Some women turn down chances to marry because they can't get the man they want, and will settle for none others. Others have families to support. There is probably not one unmarried woman who hasn't turned down at least one chance to marry. Why, then, do so many married women who are married to beasts get a smug satisfaction out of calling their unmarried friends "old maids"? I would like your comments, please.

MARIE
DEAR MARIE: The term "old maid" is not always intended as a slur. It can be used with gentleness and understanding. And self-sufficient women, unmarried by choice, probably couldn't care less. But I agree with you—when its connotations are cruel, those using the term should be ashamed of themselves.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JOHN-
NY ON THE SPOT": Keep right on being punctual—it's one of the most beautiful of all attributes, although I personally have lost more time being on time than anyone I know.

Afternoon Meet Held by WSCS

The Tarlton WSCS held an afternoon meeting in the church social rooms.

Opening song was "Draw Me Nearer" and devotions, under the direction of Mrs. Richard Hartley, were based on the theme "You Are Christ Called." Mrs. Merle Drum gave a reading on the topic.

Mrs. Albert Spangler, president, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Joe Jenkins gave the secretary's report and Mrs. Walter Griffith gave the treasurer's report.

The next meeting will be a picnic at Coss Mound on Aug. 5.

Refreshments were served to 13 members and three guests by the hostesses Mrs. John Morrison, Mrs. Merle Drum, Zelpha Drum, Mrs. Richard Rhymer and Venita Rhymer.

Five Points WCTU Meet Attended by 12

Mrs. Howard Grabill entertained 12 members of the Five Points WCTU when they met Wednesday afternoon for their July meeting.

The president, Mrs. Francis Furniss, opened the meeting with group singing of "America" and using as her theme, "Land Where Our Fathers Died." Mrs. Loring Stoer read the scripture followed by meditations and prayer. Roll call was answered by 12 members and Mrs. Shirley Anderson read the secretary's report and Mrs. Herman Porter gave the treasurer's report.

Mrs. Lloyd Neff opened the program with a reading, "Patriots" and Miss Laura Long read about crusade leader, Emily Huntington Miller. Mrs. Arthur Winfough read, "Is The Liquor Business My Business?" and Mrs. Grabill read "Wet Claims and Factual Answers." Mrs. Clark McCafferty read "Why Alcoholic Beverages" and Miss Saralie Grabill read, "Register Christian Opinion." Mrs. Harry A. Dick presented the topic "Christian Citizenship" and Mrs. Loring Stoer read dimensions in preservation. Mrs. Furniss gave a quiz on parliamentary procedure and plans were discussed concerning the Stoutsville meeting and a group plans to attend on July 24. Plans were also made to attend the Lancaster Camp Meeting in August.

The meeting closed with benediction and refreshments were served by Mrs. Grabill assisted by her daughter, Saralie, and Mrs. Ernestine Dudson.

The August meeting will be held with Mrs. Ernest Sheets and Mrs. William Davis as hostesses with the place to be announced later.

Heber Chapter OES Has Meet

The Past Matron's Circle of Heber Chapter, No. 62, Order of Eastern Star, met recently in the home of Mrs. Carl Hooks, Route 1, Williamsport, with 11 members and one guest, Mrs. James Hooks, present.

The president, Mrs. Harry Smith, opened the meeting with a reading entitled "Growing Friendship." Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood gave the secretary and treasurer reports. Correspondence from Mrs. Clarence McAbee of Circleville was read and Mrs. Tammy Marcy remarked that the group was meeting on her 61st wedding anniversary.

The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. John West; vice president, Mrs. Smith; secretary, Mrs. Carl Hooks; treasurer, Mrs. Ray Horch. The new president appointed Mrs. Lawrence Reid to serve as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and Mrs. Greenwood as chairman of the Card and Flowers Committee. Mrs. Carl Hooks instituted the idea of a mystery gift to be awarded at each meeting. She furnished the first gift which was won by Mrs. Russel McDill, who will bring the next mystery gift.

The next meeting will be held July 15, in the dining room of the Williamsport Masonic Temple. All members are asked to bring individual desserts, which will be exchanged during the social hour. Mrs. West will serve as hostess.

The hostess served refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, and punch to Mrs. Smith of Ashville, Mrs. Reid of Darbyville, and Mrs. Edgar Anderson, Mrs. Horch, Mrs. Marcy, Mrs. McDill, Mrs. Edna Newhouse, Mrs. Donald Schleich, Mrs. West, Mrs. Greenwood and Mrs. James Hooks of Williamsport. Laura Dee Schleich was also a welcomed guest.

If you like to make ice-cream balls ahead to store in your freezer, you'll find that a quart of ice cream makes six good sized servings.

Weekly Food Review

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Poultry is competing strongly with red meats in many markets this weekend.

While beef prices show signs of rising as supplies diminish, turkey is becoming more easily available and prices are down.

Turkey shipments are up 10 per cent from a year ago and this amply translated itself into lower market prices and more frequent "specials" at 37 cents a pound or so. Beef prices, meanwhile, have moved up at wholesale at the big packing centers and this is beginning to show up at the nation's retail counters.

One national chain is featuring ribs of beef this weekend at 63 cents a pound, with sirloin at 99 and boneless chuck roasts at 59 cents.

The rise in pork prices has been more apparent and, with production easing, is likely to last longer.

Fresh vegetable attractions, meanwhile, include cabbage, snap beans, beets, carrots, corn, okra, green and dry onions, radishes, summer squash, watercress, peppers, eggplant, tomatoes, cucumbers and lettuce.

Fresh fruit counters are copiously supplied, although peaches are in short supply and higher-priced because of freezes late in the growing season. Plums are beginning to arrive in near-record volume. Cherry production is up sharply.

Drain chilled canned pears and serve with thin chocolate custard sauce. Quick and good!

SALT CREEK VALLEY
Saltcreek Valley Grange met July 7 with Worthy Master Russell Miller in charge.

The special election was conducted for the delegate and alternate to represent Pickaway County Granges at the Ohio State Convention.

Mrs. Wayne Luckhart, subordinate home economics chairman, and Leora Sayre, member of the Pomona Home Economics Committee, reviewed the meeting of representatives of the eight Granges in the county when initial plans were made for the many responsibilities and services at the County Fair in August.

Edgar DeLong and his committee will complete basic plans for the exhibit booth after the next meeting.

Saltcreek Grange members will share food preparation and serving duties in the 4-H and Grange center, Aug. 4th and assume full charge of the entrance-exit gates the morning and afternoon of Aug. 6.

John Dowler, county deputy and state secretary, will be present for the Annual Grange Inspection which will be the special feature of the July 21 meeting. A special program is being planned and members were urged to assist with good attendance.

States' Rights was the subject presented by Wayne Luckhart, legislative agent. This was to support the joint resolution set for hearing on July 20 to protect and strengthen all people's rights and interests, whether they are the majority or minority, the great or small, rich or poor.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Spung and Mr. and Mrs. Max Luckhart.

Foreign Exchange Students Study Wheat Yields Here

Seven foreign exchange students yesterday visited the Glenn Rader farm, north of Ashville, for the purpose of learning how to estimate the yield of a wheat field before harvest.

Vaughn Grubb, local supervisory enumerator, showed the students, representing five foreign countries, the type of equipment and skill needed to estimate wheat output.

Mr. Grubb was assisted in his demonstrations by J. R. Kendall, state agricultural statistician, and Fredric Coffey of the Economic Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture. Coffey is the group guide.

The students are leaving later this week for Iowa where they will study the methods of estimating corn and soy bean output.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio conditions:

Ohio again was covered by a thick blanket of fog this morning and was dotted by a few widely scattered showers in the eastern portion.

At 6 a.m. light rain or showers were reported at Cleveland, Youngstown and Chesapeake. Temperatures were mostly in the 60s, ranging from 60 at Zanesville to 64 at Toledo, 65 at Columbus and 66 at Cleveland.

Considerable cloudiness was expected to cover the state today, with fog slowly dissipating this morning and precipitation in the eastern sections ending.

Partly cloudy skies are forecast for tonight and Friday, with widely scattered showers possible in extreme southern reaches of the state both this afternoon and Friday afternoon.

Temperatures will climb to the lower 80s this afternoon and tonight.

Highway Engineers Book Strike

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An Operating Engineers' strike that would cripple all Ohio highway and heavy construction work has been scheduled for next Monday.

Federal Mediator H. J. Montoney gave this word Wednesday to Gov. James A. Rhodes and said the walkout decision was made by the Engineers' Local 18.

The local represents 12,000 construction workers whose officials are in a contract dispute with the Ohio Contractors Association, Montoney said.

Highway Director P. E. Masheter estimated the strike would affect about $180 million worth of uncompleted work on contracts totaling some $500 million. He added that sewer work along with county and municipal projects also would be halted.

Rhodes was scheduled to leave today for the Republican National Convention in San Francisco. His office gave no indication whether efforts for settlement would be made before Monday.

Montoney said the strike date was set after contractors took the position there was no need for further negotiating sessions. The unionist last month turned down a contract negotiated after the old agreement expired April 30.

Ohio's Congressmen Slated for Testimony

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, chairman of the committee authorized by the Legislative Service Commission to study congressional redistricting of Ohio, says the 24 Buckeye congressmen will be asked to testify at a committee hearing Aug. 13-14.

KC Officers Hold 1st Meeting

Newly elected officers of Hannan Council 5297, Knights of Columbus, officiated at their first meeting this week in the council rooms at Franklin and Pickaway Sts.

The new Grand Knight, Stanley Stevens, presented a plaque to outgoing Grand Knight William Thornton on behalf of the council. The award was given in appreciation of Thornton's leadership during the first two years of existence for the local council.

Members were reminded to make reservations for a weiner roast and songfest to be held at a park in Washington Twp. on July 18. Reservations may be made with Stevens or with Robert Monarski. Assisting with the event will be Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schilling, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Joyce and Mr. and Mrs. Gus Rayburn.

Two time capsules buried at the New York World's Fair are supposed to be opened in 6939.

Lily Pool Project Makes Lovely Backyard Addition

Let the temperature flirt with the 100 mark. Miss Miriam Weaver, 469 Half Ave., doesn't care!

She has a lily pool in her backyard garden and a cooler or more pleasant addition to a July garden cannot be found.

If she were not such an energetic gardener she could loaf in the shade of her attractive young pear tree. Or she could sit in front of her birch thicket and just watch the gold fish flip as they catch insects that fly over the surface of the water.

But Miss Weaver is a hard working gardener with many a well thought out project towards which to work. So she can't loaf too long at one stretch.

THE LILY pond, which is a fairly recent project, was planned carefully before it became a reality. Miriam Weaver, whose pleasant contemporary house was built just three years ago, knew then that because of the levels in the backyard she wanted a pool.

Most helpful in planning it was a book by G. L. Thomas Jr., entitled "Garden Pools, Water Lilies and Goldfish."

And last year when she was recuperating from surgery, operations for the pool began. Her brother who lives next door wanted to know if she planned to dig to China. But she took his teasing because she knew she wanted a pool two feet deep. She also knew she wanted it egg shaped and edged with large flat stones which came from the creek on her sister's farm near Chillicothe.

There's a dry wall between the house level and the pool and around this Miss Weaver has planted cotoneaster repens which will gracefully branch towards the surface of the water.

Miriam also knew just where she wanted to buy her pond plants. She ordered them from MEALTIME IN THE LILY POOL — Miss Miriam Weaver kneels to feed her fish which live happily here both summer and winter. Feeding time is every other day. The youngsters in the neighborhood love watching this procedure. Note the water lilies in blossom. They last about four days and close at night.

William Tricker, Independence, O. And growing in the pool at present are water hyacinths, water lettuce, three hardy water lilies, arum and two statelily plants that look like cattails. One has variegated foliage.

But it is not just plants that inhabit this attractive pool. Snails, goldfish and one frog live in its depths. Some of the goldfish are blueblonds imported from Europe. These are the Golden Arf and they are the fish that do the surface flipping after insects. Calico shebunkins also sport around.

AN ITINERANT frog found the pond so attractive he just stays on.

Water comes from the roof, thus cutting down the water bill for the 10 by 12 pond. If you look closely you can find an overflow pipe.

Aside from the pool Miss Weaver's backyard garden is in itself attractive. One of the reasons is that she and her mother almost have a common garden. One flows into the other.

This is an example of what happens when two gardeners combine yards and talent. Mrs. Earl Weaver, Miriam's mother, has a gorgeous Clematis, Jackmanii. When it bloomed it formed a background for Miriam's orchid lythrum in front of which was rose colored Spirea, Anthony Waterer.

Even before her house was built, Miss Weaver had a corner set aside for nursing evergreens which have grown into nice young specimens. Planted in the garden is a rather impressive list of beautiful shrubs, a pink dogwood, winged euonymus, a viburnum with berries loved by the birds, a sweet scented Viburnum Carlesii, three multiple birch clumps and evergreens including yews.

In front of the shrubs which grow along the property lines are flower beds of perennials bordered by petunias.

THE GARDEN may be seen from a picture window in the dining area. It will in years to come have a stone patio and a high board fence all around it and a garage and a sweep of lawn bordered with other shrubs yet to be planted. There's a scaled drawing of the garden as it will be.

And how does Miss Miriam

Try Sidalcea For Summer Bloom Plant

Sidalcea or miniature hollyhock is a graceful, airy plant.

Blooms come on tall spikes. Like most spike plants it blossoms over a long period of time. A perennial, Sidalcea will endure considerable heat and dryness without flinching.

The flowers are soft pink, a little inclined towards lilac color. A plant of Sidalcea with nine or ten flowering spikes makes quite a splurge in the garden at this time.

A perennial Sidalcea self sows and is easily grown from seed we have been told. Plants should be divided about every three years.

THIS PLANT requires little attention and if you are interested in July and August bloomers here is a good one.

Curiously enough this beautiful and pleasant plant is not widely grown. Mrs. Turney Pontius has it blooming in her garden at present.

Yes, You May Be Growing Aspirin In Your Garden

Mary, Mary, quite contrary, How does your aspirin grow? As you can see, this bit of doggerel is different from the childhood version. But the chances are you really are growing aspirin in your garden. Or at least a form of it.

Aspirin, the most widely used medicine in the world, is a salicylate. And the salicylates can be found naturally in many garden flowers, or the willow tree, or the plants of common fruits, including orange, apple, cherry, grape and strawberry.

Colorful plants that contain salicylates are hyacinth, tulip, marigold and pansy. Another salicylate-containing plant is clover. We don't know if bees get headaches, but if they do perhaps they get relief from the clover blossoms.

Double Daylily Is Beautiful, But Expensive

Fanciers have waited a long time for a variety of daylily with double yellow blossoms. But it is now available.

Known as "Double Gold" this hermerocallis is the result of a plant grown from seed sent to Wayside Gardens by Dr. Stout of the New York Botanic Gardens.

Dr. Stout, a daylily specialist, sent double hermerocallis seeds to this nursery. Of all the plants "Double Gold" alone was worthy of a name. Double Gold was two rows of reflex petals which are broad and thick and of a rich golden yellow.

The plant is robust and a prolific bloomer. Blossoms arrive the last week of June and it blooms through July. Nice strong plants are offered at $10 apiece.

Garden Gossip

It was a thrilling sight to see the boys harvesting sweetcorn on July 3 at the Robert Rhodes' farm. We have watched this planting with interest because we pass it so frequently. The Rhodes family runs a roadside market east of town on Route 56.

G. A. Wylie, Route 4, harvested six pounds of spinach from his garden on April 9. Ever since we heard this we have planned to visit this vegetable garden which we understand is an excellent one.

Mrs. Gerald Patrick freezes peas for winter use. She was obliged to attend a funeral the day her peas were picked. She took them to her cool cellar and spread them out on a tarpaulin. After she returned she went to work on the peas.

Mrs. Donald Miller, Route 1, says to pick your cattails in July for dried arrangements later in the year. If picked now they will not disintegrate.

Mrs. Earl Weaver, Half Ave., is a lily fancier. He could not help looking at her tall wonderful lilies when we visited her daughter's garden. Also blooming beautifully in Mrs. Weaver's flower border was a marvelous specimen of shasta daisy. The plant was at least three feet in diameter.

Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, N. Pickaway St., is all for modern design in flower arranging. She says that abstracts take very few flowers and are easy to make. Well, this may be a recommendation.

Mrs. James Jackson gave three valuable suggestions to her students at the last lesson of her course in Advanced Modern Arranging. In making abstracts she said to find unusual modern containers, avoid focal areas and use floral material in an unrealistic manner.

Ah me! Only yesterday we were all losing out on blue ribbons because we did not have definite focal areas.

Mrs. Jackson also stated that of all the ingredients necessary to create fine flower arrangements, she regarded "proportion" as most important.

Harford Renick, Route 3, will again have a patterned garden filled with interesting annuals. According to his sister, Miss Dehl Renick, he has several plants. This year for the first time he has Mimulus or sensitive plant.

Mrs. C. A. Winner, 120 Watt St., has a backyard full of flowers. They have spilled over into an alley planting which is most attractive. In the yard near the latticed fence, hollyhocks are blooming. In the alley there are red bergamot, shasta daisies and daylilies. Other things, too!

The Lincoln Molded Plastics plant has passion vine in bloom along its south side.

Christian Schwarz, 147 Watt St., is one of our favorite gardeners. Anybody who can answer at this time of year that everything is blooming in his garden is good at the vocation. July is a tough month for most gardeners. A peek at the Schwarz garden assured me the roses certainly are in excellent shape.

Mrs. Rose Pickens, 124 Watt St., was the first person in Circleville whom I knew to be successful as grower of the beautiful Mimosa tree. But even Mrs. Pickens has had her ups and downs with this southern tree. The last two winters have taken their toll. But we noticed a mimosa stump in her yard had sprouted branches.

Gwen Defenbaugh, Route 1, Laurelville, has stateli mulleins growing behind her mailbox. This beautiful wayside plant has lovely foliage and considerable grace. We have it in our garden.

Within the year we have lost several of our fine area gardeners. Mrs. George Steely, E. Main St., who died last week, was a gardener I will long remember. She called me not long ago to tell me that her garden was very lovely. In her eighties, she gardened to the very last.

The late Mrs. Orion King of W. High St. never lost interest in gardening. She bequeathed favorite plants to gardening friends. Mrs. Donald Watt told me that she had some of Mrs. King's fine daylilies.

Ross County gardeners will long miss the late Mrs. Trimble Parker whose garden was a source of inspiration to Pickaway County people as well as Chillicothe area folks. Everybody around here has plants that once came from Mrs. Parker's garden.

Nor was anybody more generous than the late Mrs. Ella Hornbeck whose garden on Pinckney St. graced that locality for many years.

Mrs. Tom Kyle's hollyhocks are most attractive. The Kyles live at Eastmoor Ave. and E. Main St. Hollyhocks that used to be so beloved and so widely grown are subject to rust and are somewhat uncommon now.

PANSY BOX AT THE CHILDREN'S SHOP — Pansies are a tradition at The Children's Shop at 151 W. Main St. Each spring these beloved little flowers are planted in the window box. Sterling Bowl Tournament Is Won by Texas Arranger

Winner of the ninth annual Sterling Bowl Tournament, the only national rose arranging competition, was Mrs. E. O. Barton of 7103 Hartland Avenue, Houston, Tex.

She was one of 14 contestants selected from 115 top flight flower arrangers nominated from 45 states.

Mrs. Barton's arrangement featured the all time prize winning hybrid tea rose, Tropicana, in an oriental bronze container. And a twisted stem of elegans was used.

It won for her the top honor in the garden club world and one year's possession of the $5,000 perpetual challenge silver trophy for which the competition was named.

Held in the Garden House of the 17-acre Jackson & Perkins rose garden, the Tournament was a major feature of the 33rd annual Rose Festival.

Second prize winner was Mrs. John E. Tumminello of 2815 Pershing Street, Alexandria, Louisiana. Third was Mrs. Samuel B. Fields of 50 Birch Road, Briarcliff Manor, New York.

Chosen for honorable mention were: Mrs. Joe E. Wolff of 5437 Pleasure Point Lane, Bellevue, Washington; Mrs. Samuel D. Stanson of 368 West Fairlawn Boulevard, Akron, O. and Mrs. C. T. Payne of 125 Catalpa Drive, Natchez, Miss.

Each of the contestants was presented a sterling silver lapel flower holder and Sterling Silver rose bushes. In addition, the top three winners were awarded pieces of silver, a bowl, vase and tray.

Rose varieties, used by the second prize winner included velvet Times, Red American Beauty and World's Fair Salute. Third prize winner used Bronze Masterpiece with fresh rose canes and Yucca foliage.

Postman Neglects Unimportant Mail (2 Tons of It)

WATER MILL, N.Y. (AP)—After delivering mail for 30 years, postman Lorin F. Shipper apparently decided to deliver only the important-looking letters and let the rest pile up.

Authorities found two tons of unopened mail, mostly periodicals, circulars and advertising matter, in Shipper's garage and in some ancient automobiles parked on his lawn. It was postmarked 1953 and 1954. About 10 per cent was first-class mail.

Roy Peterson, Southampton postmaster, said there were no complaints of missed mail. "The carrier must have delivered all the mail he thought important and just put the rest away," he said Tuesday.

Shipper, 75, who retired in 1953, told postal officials he couldn't recall how the leftover mail got there.

Peterson said that since the five-year statute of limitations had expired there would be no prosecution.

The father gave away the bride in ancient Egypt. He handed one of her sandals to the groom, signifying she was now in the groom's care. Today, friends tie old shoes to the car in which the newly married pair leaves for the honeymoon.

Lily Pool Project Makes Lovely Backyard Addition

Let the temperature flirt with the 100 mark. Miss Miriam Weaver, 469 Half Ave., doesn't care!

She has a lily pool in her backyard garden and a cooler or more pleasant addition to a July garden cannot be found.

If she were not such an energetic gardener she could loaf in the shade of her attractive young pear tree. Or she could sit in front of her birch thicket and just watch the gold fish flip as they catch insects that fly over the surface of the water.

But Miss Weaver is a hard working gardener with many a well thought out project towards which to work. So she can't loaf too long at one stretch.

THE LILY pond, which is a fairly recent project, was planned carefully before it became a reality. Miriam Weaver, whose pleasant contemporary house was built just three years ago, knew then that because of the levels in the backyard she wanted a pool.

Most helpful in planning it was a book by G. L. Thomas Jr., entitled "Garden Pools, Water Lilies and Goldfish."

And last year when she was recuperating from surgery, operations for the pool began. Her brother who lives next door wanted to know if she planned to dig to China. But she took his teasing because she knew she wanted a pool two feet deep. She also knew she wanted it egg shaped and edged with large flat stones which came from the creek on her sister's farm near Chillicothe.

There's a dry wall between the house level and the pool and around this Miss Weaver has planted cotoneaster reopens which will gracefully branch towards the surface of the water.

Miriam also knew just where she wanted to buy her pond plants. She ordered them from MEALTIME IN THE LILY POOL — Miss Miriam Weaver kneels to feed her fish which live happily here both summer and winter. Feeding time is every other day. The youngsters in the neighborhood love watching this procedure. Note the water lilies in blossom. They last about four days and close at night.

William Tricker, Independence, O. And growing in the pool at present are water hyacinths, water lettuce, three hardy water lilies, arum and two state lily plants that look like cattails. One has variegated foliage.

But it is not just plants that inhabit this attractive pool. Snails, goldfish and one frog live in its depths. Some of the goldfish are bluebloods imported from Europe. These are the Golden Arf and they are the fish that do the surface flipping after insects. Calico shebunkins also sport around.

AN ITINERANT frog found the pond so attractive he just stays on.

Water comes from the roof, thus cutting down the water bill for the 10 by 12 pond. If you look closely you can find an overflow pipe.

Aside from the pool Miss Weaver's backyard garden is in itself attractive. One of the reasons is that she and her mother almost have a common garden. One flows into the other.

This is an example of what happens when two gardeners combine yards and talent. Mrs. Earl Weaver, Miriam's mother, has a gorgeous Clematis, Jackmanii. When it bloomed it formed a background for Miriam's orchid lythrum in front of which was rose colored Spirea, Anthony Waterer.

Even before her house was built, Miss Weaver had a corner set aside for nursing evergreens which have grown into nice young specimens. Planted in the garden is a rather impressive list of beautiful shrubs, a pink dogwood, winged euonymus, a viburnum with berries loved by the birds, a sweet scented Viburnum Carlesii, three multiple brist clumps and evergreens including yews.

In front of the shrubs which grow along the property lines are flower beds of perennials bordered by petunias.

THE GARDEN may be seen from a picture window in the dining area. It will in years to come have a stone patio and a high board fence all around it and a garage and a sweep of lawn bordered with other shrubs yet to be planted. There's a scaled drawing of the garden as it will be.

And how does Miss Miriam

Try Sidalcea For Summer Bloom Plant

Sidalcea or miniature hollyhock is a graceful, airy plant.

Blossoms come on tall spikes. Like most spike plants it blossoms over a long period of time. A perennial, Sidalcea will endure considerable heat and dryness without flinching.

The flowers are soft pink, a little inclined towards lilac color. A plant of Sidalcea with nine or ten flowering spikes makes quite a splurge in the garden at this time.

A perennial Sidalcea self sows and is easily grown from seed we have been told. Plants should be divided about every three years.

THIS PLANT requires little attention and if you are interested in July and August bloomers here is a good one.

Curiously enough this beautiful and pleasant plant is not widely grown. Mrs. Turney Pontius has it blooming in her garden at present.

Yes, You May Be Growing Aspirin In Your Garden

Mary, Mary, quite contrary, How does your aspirin grow? As you can see, this bit of doggerel is different from the childhood version. But the chances are you really are growing aspirin in your garden. Or at least a form of it.

Aspirin, the most widely used medicine in the world, is a salicylate. And the salicylates can be found naturally in many garden flowers, or the willow tree, or the plants of common fruits, including orange, apple, cherry, grape and strawberry.

Colorful plants that contain salicylates are hyacinth, tulip, marigold and pansy. Another salicylate-containing plant is clover. We don't know if bees get headaches, but if they do perhaps they get relief from the clover blossoms.

Garden Gossip

It was a thrilling sight to see the boys harvesting sweetcorn on July 3 at the Robert Rhodes' farm. We have watched this planting with interest because we pass it so frequently. The Rhodes family runs a roadside market east of town on Route 56.

G. A. Wylie, Route 4, harvested six pounds of spinach from his garden on April 9. Ever since we heard this we have planned to visit this vegetable garden which we understand is an excellent one.

Mrs. Gerald Patrick freezes peas for winter use. She was obliged to attend a funeral the day her peas were picked. She took them to her cool cellar and spread them out on a tarpaulin. After she returned she went to work on the peas.

Mrs. Donald Miller, Route 1, says to pick your cabbins in July for dried arrangements later in the year. If picked now they will not disintegrate.

Mrs. Earl Weaver, Half Ave., is a lily fancier. We could not help looking at her tall wonderful lilies when we visited her daughter's garden. Also blooming beautifully in Mrs. Weaver's flower border was a marvelous specimen of shasta daisy. The plant was at least three feet in diameter.

Mrs. Kenneth Hannan, N. Pickaway St., is all for modern design in flower arranging. She says that abstracts take very few flowers and are easy to make. Well, this may be a recommendation.

Mrs. James Jackson gave three valuable suggestions to her students at the last lesson of her course in Advanced Modern Arranging. In making abstracts she said to find unusual modern containers, avoid focal areas and use floral material in an unrealistic manner.

Ah me! Only yesterday we were all losing out on blue ribbons because we did not have definite focal areas.

Mrs. Jackson also stated that of all the ingredients necessary to create fine flower arrangements, she regarded "proportion" as most important.

Harford Renick, Route 3, will again have a patterned garden filled with interesting annuals. According to his sister, Miss Dehl Renick, he has several plants. This year for the first time he has Mimulus or sensitive plant.

Mrs. C. A. Winner, 120 Watt St., has a backyard full of flowers. They have spilled over into an alley planting which is most attractive. In the yard near the lattice fence, hollyhocks are blooming. In the alley there are red bergamot, shasta daisies and daylilies. Other things, too!

The Lincoln Molded Plastics plant has passion vine in bloom along its south side.

Christian Schwarz, 147 Watt St., is one of our favorite gardeners. Anybody who can answer at this time of year that everything is blooming in his garden is good at the vocation. July is a tough month for most gardeners. A peek at the Schwarz garden assured me the roses certainly are in excellent shape.

Mrs. Rose Pickens, 124 Watt St., was the first person in Circleville whom I knew to be successful as grower of the beautiful Mimosa tree. But even Mrs. Pickens has had her ups and downs with this southern tree. The last two winters have taken their toll. But we noticed a mimosa stump in her yard had sprouted branches.

Gwen Defenbaugh, Route 1, Laurelville, has stately mulleins growing behind her mailbox. This beautiful wayside plant has lovely foliage and considerable grace. We have it in our garden.

Within the year we have lost several of our fine area gardeners. Mrs. George Steely, E. Main St., who died last week, was a gardener I will long remember. She called me not long ago to tell me that her garden was very lovely. In her eighties, she gardened to the very last.

The late Mrs. Orion King of W. High St. never lost interest in gardening. She bequeathed favorite plants to gardening friends. Mrs. Donald Watt told me that she had some of Mrs. King's fine daylilies.

Ross County gardeners will long miss the late Mrs. Trimble Parker whose garden was a source of inspiration to Pickaway County people as well as Chillicothe area folks. Everybody around here has plants that once came from Mrs. Parker's garden.

Nor was anybody more generous than the late Mrs. Ella Hornbeck whose garden on Pinckney St. graced that locality for many years.

Mrs. Tom Kyle's hollyhocks are most attractive. The Kyles live at Eastmoor Ave. and E. Main St. Hollyhocks that used to be so beloved and so widely grown are subject to rust and are somewhat uncommon now.

Cool Effect Is Broadcast By Hydrangea

One of the coolest looking and showiest of shrubs that blooms in Ohio gardens in late June and early July is the Hills of Snow Hydrangea.

Botanically it is the Hydrangea arborescens grandiflora. It grows four or five feet high. Its flower panicles are white and as they age they turn charcoal green.

It is in flower until September and arrangers often like to use the flower heads, which when dry retain their green color.

It is a leaf loser. In fact after fall frosts it may be cut off to the ground. In the spring the new shoots grow fast and by late June have attained maximum height.

DURING summer this pretty shrub is pleasing as a foundation plant in front of the house. However, it is not too attractive in early spring or in the winter.

It does rather well in light shade. In fact it may be considered as one of the finest small shrubs for the mid-summer (July and August) garden. Do not disregard it because it is common.

It is easily propagated by taking leafy cuttings of half ripened shoots in summer and rooting in sand or vermiculite. Hardwood cuttings made of leafless shoots in the fall buried in sand during the winter will take root. Of course the shoots must be vertically placed with tips above the ground.

Review of Life in USSR

Newer Generation of Russians Seems To Be Less Revolutionary

EDITOR'S NOTE — The old revolutionary spark seems to be disappearing in Russia; the newer generation is less fanatic. Preston Grover, Associated Press chief of bureau in Moscow for five years, tells why in the following third of four articles.

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet revolution gives much evidence of running down.

That is a development perhaps as pleasing to some Soviet people as to the people in the West.

This doesn't mean that the Soviet Union has stopped growing. It is growing quite fast. But it does mean that especially among the young, the zeal of the Founding Fathers for the pure faith is no longer what it was.

Premier Khrushchev himself gave dramatic evidence of that when he told a group of Hungarian factory workers that people expected, and should get, more than just enthusiastic party talk. They also wanted more goulash.

"Goulash communism" as a catch phrase now is heard here, very privately. Americans should not be astonished that much of the fanatic zeal is gone. They have seen the same thing in pioneer settlements in the West where religion was the dominant factor.

The circumstances and the motives are different, but the experiences have a certain parallel.

A few of the people who had struggled through the hard years before and after the revolution of 1917 still are in government, but many of those now in authority never saw Lenin. He died in 1924.

When Khrushchev set out to destroy the image of Stalin, it was a "purge" to clean up the party history. But it shook the faith of many.

The days of the old "barriade fighters" have given way to another generation waiting to take over.

The glow has gone even from some of the heroes of those days when Communist doctrine called for weakening family ties so the influence of the party and government would be felt more.

That, too, has changed. The family no longer is a thing to be despised, but to be encouraged and respected.

The state and party still make themselves felt as the basis of life in the Soviet Union. In children's pioneer organizations, in the Young Communist League, the young of the land still are indoctrinated with Communist precepts.

But there is increasing cynicism about the constant new drives of communism. In 1961, Khrushchev outlined at the party congress the project for bringing full-fledged communism to the country in 20 years.

The party editorialists pulsed with enthusiasm, but the project brought audible moans from many Russians.

"I'll be an old man then, still poor, like my father," said a Russian salaried man, with a wife and one child.

With two generations already sacrificed to the building of communism, the present population is not delighted at the prospect of seeing a third generation go through the poverty mill. Increasingly they are able to make their voices heard, in a way never to have been thought of under Stalin.

The sons and grandsons of the same farmers are simply not producing, and the government and party now are offering more and more inducement for individuals to work harder. Farmers are still the downtrodden part of the population.

All this doesn't justify any conclusion that communism itself is dead. Any Communist leader can point to great accomplishments in the country since 1917.

It is a safe bet that if the Russian people were asked to vote for or against communism, they would vote overwhelmingly for it. It wouldn't be 99.45 per cent, the way it is in the elections, but would be a monster vote. It is now their way of life.

Next: After Khrushchev, what?

BUC To Occupy New Offices Next Week

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Bureau of Unemployment Compensation expects to have moved all its offices into its new building at Front and Town streets by next weekend. The BUC's new $5 million six-story building was opened officially Wednesday when Gov. James A. Rhodes cut a ribbon. The building replaces the BUC's old site at 427 Cleveland Ave.

Review of Life in USSR

Newer Generation of Russians Seems To Be Less Revolutionary

EDITOR'S NOTE — The old revolutionary spark seems to be disappearing in Russia; the newer generation is less fanatic. Preston Grover, Associated Press chief of bureau in Moscow for five years, tells why in the following third of four articles.

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet revolution gives much evidence of running down. That is a development perhaps as pleasing to some Soviet people as to the people in the West.

This doesn't mean that the Soviet Union has stopped growing. It is growing quite fast. But it does mean that especially among the young, the zeal of the Founding Fathers for the pure faith is no longer what it was.

Premier Khrushchev himself gave dramatic evidence of that when he told a group of Hungarian factory workers that people expected, and should get, more than just enthusiastic party talk. They also wanted more goulash. "Goulash communism" as a catch phrase now is heard here, very privately.

Americans should not be astonished that much of the fanatic zeal is gone. They have seen the same thing in pioneer settlements in the West where religion was the dominant factor. The circumstances and the motives are different, but the experiences have a certain parallel.

A few of the people who had struggled through the hard years before and after the revolution of 1917 still are in government, but many of those now in authority never saw Lenin. He died in 1924.

When Khrushchev set out to destroy the image of Stalin, it was a "purge" to clean up the party history. But it shook the faith of many.

The days of the old "barri-cades fighters" have given way to another generation waiting to take over.

The glow has gone even from some of the heroes of those days when Communist doctrine called for weakening family ties so the influence of the party and government would be felt more. That, too, has changed. The family no longer is a thing to be despised, but to be encouraged and respected.

The state and party still make themselves felt as the basis of life in the Soviet Union. In children's pioneer organizations, in the Young Communist League, the young of the land still are indoctrinated with Communist precepts.

But there is increasing cynicism about the constant new drives of communism. In 1961, Khrushchev outlined at the party congress the project for bringing full-fledged communism to the country in 20 years.

The party editorialists pulsed with enthusiasm, but the project brought audible moans from many Russians.

"I'll be an old man then, still poor, like my father," said a Russian salaried man, with a wife and one child.

With two generations already sacrificed to the building of communism, the present population is not delighted at the prospect of seeing a third generation go through the poverty mill. Increasingly they are able to make their voices heard, in a way never to have been thought of under Stalin.

A family picnic was held Saturday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lyons and children, Rosemary, Kathy, Janet, Peter and Amy. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis and sons, John, Dan and Tom, David Kelley and Ray Anderson of Cincinnati.

Mr. John B. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis and children Jim and Kristi, returned Saturday evening from Mt. Vernon, Miss. Mrs. Davis and children had been visiting the Winston Hoods when word was received of the death, in an airplane crash, of their son Charles Boyd Hood of the U. S. Navy near Clinton, N. C. Sunday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. John B. Thomas and Steve, Mr. Dwight Davis and Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Leffingwell of Kingston, went to Missouri for the funeral services held on Thursday. Mrs. Thomas remained with the Hoods and will return later with the Leffingwells.

The village of Kingston was saddened by the news. A Memorial Service was held Thursday in the Methodist Church where the Hood family were members.

The committee for the Kingston Community Park Raising Fund met at the Municipal Building with president Paul McKenzie conducting the meeting. New types of entertainment for the Fair were discussed. It was announced there will be a horse show with William Rhoades and Kenneth Timmons as co-chairmen. The dates for the festival are Aug. 22 and 23. Members of the 1964 Village Belles have been chosen. They are Janet Lyons, Barbara Shepard, Ruth Carper, Mary Detty, Geraldine Mace and Cindy Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and son, Sam, returned Tuesday from a two-week vacation at Madison, Ill. They visited Mrs. Miller's mother, Mrs. Joseph Kojecny, her brother, Ziggy Kojecny and her sister, Mrs.

Helen Venarsky. Sam returned to Madison Friday to attend Open House at McDells Aircraft where he saw a two-man space ship.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sims on Sunday were Mrs. Sims' brother, Mr. Albert Harris and son, Simon, of Chatteroy, W. Va., and her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Stepp of Portsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Congrove (Marjo Evans) have named their new daughter Betsy Lynn. She was born June 15 in Berger Hospital.

Mrs. Harold Albert (Nancy Minor) and baby girl returned to her home Saturday from University Hospital, Columbus. Mr. and Mrs. Albert have named the baby Diantha Shawn. She was born June 30 and weighed 6 pounds 9 ounces. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carol Minor, Kingston. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Albert Sr., Williamsport.

Miss Effie Walker of Circleville visited Friday and Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Betz.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Betz and Mr. and Mrs. John Gatwood and son, Danny, were visitors of the Lawrence Betzes on Saturday.

Max Gibson of Gallipolis left Monday after spending several weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orsie Gibson of the Bethel neighborhood.

Their son, Clark Gibson and sons, Mike and Jeff, from Salem, O., spent from Saturday until Friday of the next week with his parents.

Nearly 87 per cent of all milk beverages are consumed at home, with 8 per cent at schools and less than 2 per cent in commercial establishments.

Blondes Have More Fun? Actress Says 'No, No, No'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Do blondes have more fun, more sex appeal, more boy friends, more oomph?

"No! No! No!" says actress Sandra Warner, a ravishing brunette who recently had to turn blonde for a role.

"My experience as a blonde was a complete disaster. It even ruined my health. I wouldn't go through the experience again for a million dollars. Well, maybe for a million."

Sandra was cast as a movie queen.

"The studio insisted that I turn blonde. I argued: 'Would Liz Taylor qualify as a movie queen?' But it was no use. I had to turn blonde. Producers think all movie queens are blonde."

"It took three days to make me a blonde. Right there, I figured, blondes don't have time enough to have fun. And how many men can you find in a beauty shop? Blondes spend half their lives in beauty shops."

"As a blonde, my whole personality changed. I may have looked flashier but I sure didn't feel it."

City Park Liability Is Defined

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Municipalities are not liable for baseball player injuries received on a diamond in a public park, the Ohio Supreme Court has ruled.

The 6-0 decision affirmed refusal of lower courts to award damages from the City of Sandusky to a youth injured during a game on municipally owned Huron Baseball Park.

While chasing a fly ball, Richard Kubitz ran into a steel cable strung along the right field foul line. He was 18 years old at the time of the accident June 30, 1961.

The youth contended that the cable was a nuisance and that the city was liable.

But the high court said the city was not liable because "the steel-cable fence with which the baseball diamond in Huron Baseball Park was equipped is not a hazard amounting to either an absolute or a qualified nuisance."

"Maybe it's different for natural blondes — if any exist — but the whole bleaching process is turning against nature."

"As a brunette, I consider myself a warmer woman. As a blonde, I was cold, reserved — entirely different from my real personality."

"Brunettes are sexier—even though blondes may look it."

Sandra admits bitterness.

"The bleaching process put me in the hospital with toxic hepatitis—and I lost the role besides. They couldn't wait until I got well. I also lost 15 pounds."

Tina Louise took the part instead.

Jack Nicklaus, Columbus' Golden Boy of golfing, is one of the pre-tourney favorites, along with such well known names as Arnie Palmer, Tony Lema, Julius Boros and many others.

None of the boys yet know for whom they will caddy. But it could well be one of the top money winners of the sport.

And the caddies will get paid for their services. Most of the area amateur golfers would be glad to serve free of charge as caddy at the famous event, being held for the first time in Columbus.

The 18-hole Columbus Country Club course is 6,851 yards long.

The first six holes are all par four, as are 8, 11, 12, 14, 15 and 16.

PAR three holes are 7, 9, 13 and 17 while 10 and 18 are par five holes.

The 578-yard 18th hole is the longest of the course. The 172-yard 13th is the shortest.

Purse of $10,115 Attracts 25 Pacers to Scioto Downs

Twenty-five of the nation's finest 2-year-old pacers will go postward tomorrow at Scioto Downs in the pacing division of the Challenge Stakes for a purse of $10,115.

The huge entry forced the race into two elimination divisions with the first five finishers in each division coming back for the race-off.

Each elimination division will race for a purse of $3,034.50, and the race-off will carry a purse of $4,046.00. The huge Challenge Stakes sterling silver trophy will go to the winner of the race-off.

Many of the top racing stables in the country are represented in the rich stake event including Stanley Dancer, one of the nation's leading money winners; Del Miller, one of the sport's top trainer-driver-breeder-owners; Curly Smart, the veteran from Delaware; Buck Minniear, Bruce Nickells, Harold Dancer Jr., Ned Bower, Lou Huber Jr., Johnny Hague and Billy Haughton.

Stanley Dancer will score from the second tier in the first division with Spring Caper, a handsome bay son of Good Time, owned by the Lehigh Stable of New Egypt, N. J. Scoring at the rail in the second tier of the first division is Tuxedo Hanover, whose sire is 1960 Little Brown Jug winner Bullet Hanover, with Curly Smart up.

Coming out of the gate in the second post position in the first division is Good One, owned by the Tamarack Farms of Painesville.

In the fifth post position is Armbrro Frank, a bay son of Capetown, reined by the successful Ned Bower. Next is Tarport Prince, a fantastic son of Thorpe Hanover, owned by Hugh Grant of Bradford, Pa., with the crafty Del Miller in the sulky.

The second elimination division will be just as tough as the first. Drawing the number two post position is Battle Wac, a powerful filly owned by Mike Minardo of Lafayette, Indiana. Trained and driven by Buck Minniear, this bay daughter of Battle Prince won in 2:06 3-5 last week at The Downs.

Curly Smart has Lind's Girl for owner Herman Brickell of Jamestown. This daughter of Peter Lind has worked out well at Smart's Delaware training site, and has been pointed for the coveted Challenge Stakes.

Drawing the outside number eight post position in the first tier of the second division is Adios Marches, the brilliant chestnut son of Greentree Adios, owned and driven by Jim Riley of Ironton.

The unknown quantity in the second division is Adios Tartan from the top racing stable of Billy Haughton. Owned by Don MacFarlane of Detroit, Mich., this bay son of the premier pacing sire, Adios, has speed, and could be the deciding factor in the race.

Harold Dancer Jr., nephew of Stanley Dancer will score from the twelfth position in the second tier with Gee Lee Hanover, a swift son of Adios, owned by the Dixie Stable of New York City.

The Challenge Stakes field of 2-year-old pacers is a powerful one and with an assist from the weatherman Friday night, the 2-year-old pacing record set by Meadow Skipper in the 1962 Challenge Stakes of 2:03 3-5 could be shattered.

IOOF, Jaycees, 3rd Bank Post LL Minor Victories

IOOF moved into a first place deadlock with Circleville Oil in the Black Division of the Little League minors with a 15-10 win yesterday over the Savings Bank.

Jaycees bested the Second National Bank, 14-11. Third National Bank won its second game of the year by topping Blue Ribbon Dairy, 12-8.

IOOF stands 6-2 for the year, while the Savings Bank is 5-4. The Odd Fellows scored seven runs in the first inning on eight walks. They went on to mount the total with two runs in the third inning and two in the fourth.

SAVINGS BANK was blanked in the first two cantos, but rallied for five runs in the third inning and five in the fifth.

Mike Webb was the winning IOOF pitcher, although he needed last inning relief help from fireman Bob Courtwright. Together they allowed the Savings Bank 13 hits.

Pitcher Webb weilded a mean bat as he clubbed a homerun and two singles. Steve Newman went four-for-four on three doubles and a single.

Dick Hodge garnered three singles for the losing squad. Jerry Easter added a triple and Keller poled a double and a single.

In the Jaycee-Second National Bank encounter, the winning Chambermen blew a seven-run lead, but won the game in an extra inning by scoring three times.

The Jaycees starting pitcher was Ron Snyder. He fired the initial six frames, before giving way to Dave Winner, who was declared the winner.

PAUL TOWN and David McCain each belted a homerun, with Town adding a single. Frericks added three singles to the cause.

Hunter Certain paced the Second Bank. He bombed a triple, double and single. Mike Williams poled a double and two singles.

The win left Jaycees slightly behind Black Division leaders, Circleville Oil and IOOF, with a 6-3 mark. The Second Bank is still leading the Red League with a 6-2 stand.

The Third National Bank,

Blue Ribbon Dairy battle, a make-up tilt rescheduled from Tuesday, saw the winners take the lead and never drop it.

The Bankers scored four runs in the first inning, six in the second and two in the fourth. Blue Ribbon managed two in the first, three in the third and three in the fourth.

Jim Plum was the winning Third Bank thrower, going the distance. He allowed the losers nine hits, fanned 13 and walked five.

BOB BERGAN paced the winners with a triple and a double. Dan Garrett, Verland Riley and Plum each added a triple.

Jim Neal started for the losing Dairy. He pitched until two men were out in the second inning. Randy Sprout took over and finished the game. Neal walked five and fanned two batters, while Sprout struck out four.

Steve Thomas spearheaded the Dairy with a homerun, a triple and single. Neal added a triple and single and Sprout hit a double and single.

The win left the Bankers with a 2-6 mark, while it dropped Blue Ribbon Dairy out of contention for the Red League crown. The Dairy stands even at 4-4.

BOB BERGAN paced the winners with a triple and a double. Dan Garrett, Verland Riley and Plum each added a triple.

Jim Neal started for the losing Dairy. He pitched until two men were out in the second inning. Randy Sprout took over and finished the game. Neal walked five and fanned two batters, while Sprout struck out four.

Steve Thomas spearheaded the Dairy with a homerun a triple and single. Neal added a triple and single. Sprout hit a double and single.

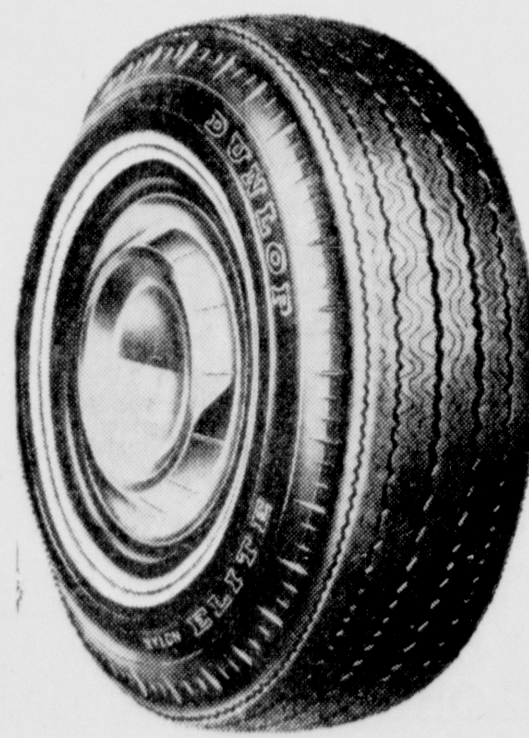

The win left the Bankers with a 2-6 mark, while it dropped Blue Ribbon Dairy out of contention for the Red League crown. The Dairy stands even at 4-4.

Ohio Valley Champion Set For Shrine Horse Show

Butch Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ford of S. Court St., will be competing with Dannie Dee in the Shrine Club Charity Western Horse Show which opens here 6 p. m. Saturday.

Dannie Dee is the Ohio Valley Horse Show Assn. high-point and barrel racing champion.

Ford took 125 firsts with his mount last year in competition classes.

At the local show he will be entered in the barrel race, the flag race, the pickup race and the key hole race and stake race.

THE 19-YEAR-OLD Ford, a veteran horse and pony showman, has competed in approximately 30 shows already this year. He has won about 40 blue ribbons. He has been in shows at Greenup, Ky.; Ashland, Ky.;

Haver Hill, Ironton, Oak Hill, Chillicothe, Columbus, Glouster and Gallipolis.

Besides riding his own horse in the local show, he will be showing King Baldy, owned by Marge Houck. King Baldy is the Ohio Valley Pleasure Horse champion.

A former 4-H Club member, Ford competed in the Shrine Club show here last year.

All proceeds from the Pickaway County Shrine Club Charity Western Horse show go to the Aladdin Temple Crippled Children's Hospital Assn.

One of the highlights of the evening program will be the name the pony contest in which a 15-year old or under youngster will win a free pony.

Lat year the pony was won by Janice Perdion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Perdion, Route 4.

EDITOR'S NOTE - Richard Deacon, the sharp-tongued comedy foil Mel Cooley on CBS' "Dick Van Dyke Show," writes today for Cynthia Lowry, who is on vacation.

By RICHARD DEACON
Written for Associated Press
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I have the uneasy feeling that people think of me as the world's worst sourpuss.

It's no wonder. I used to be a pretty cheerful fellow. That was before I ran into the status symbol game.

It's the modern version of keeping up with the Joneses. It's guaranteed to make a nervous wreck out of anyone.

If you have the right status symbols, you worry for fear they'll go out of date before you can pay for them. If you have the wrong ones—well, look at me. I'm a nervous wreck.

I got the clue early on what to expect when I went out to buy a house.

"How old is it?" I asked the real estate salesman. "This was built by Shepperd Strudwick," he answered, as though that made the house a cut above a Frank Lloyd Wright.

"Oh," I said, "is he a well-known local architect? Turned out Strudwick is a fine actor, who I'm sure would rather be known for his work than for a house. But that's how it goes in Hollywood.

When I finally did buy a house I got quite a bit of status because it used to belong to Cara Williams. And Natalie Wood lived on the corner.

Animals are very important for status in Hollywood. French poodles used to be the thing. Then the Group went to Schnauzers. I got in on the wave with a wonderful miniature Schnauzer named Fred.

But now it's chic to have a mongrel or a beagle—anything, really, with long ears.

It's most important to collect art and I do. But all the artists I collect are living, so I'm not quite in. I do have a little etching by Rembrandt and I carefully point it out to people.

They told me I'd have to have a pool in Hollywood, so I hurried to put one in. After hauling all the rock and arranging all the piping and getting it landscaped, I found out they meant a swimming pool—not a fish pool.

I don't know how much longer I can stay in the race. I have an old convertible, but for status, you need a new convertible. I've ordered a new one but I'm afraid by the time I get it the mode will be back to old convertibles.

Ohio Valley Champion Set For Shrine Horse Show

Butch Ford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Ford of S. Court St., will be competing with Dannie Dee in the Shrine Club Charity Western Horse show which opens here 6 p. m. Saturday.

Dannie Dee is the Ohio Valley Horse Show Assn. high-point and barrel racing champion.

Ford took 125 firsts with his mount last year in competition classes.

At the local show he will be entered in the barrel race, the flag race, the pickup race and the key hole race and stake race.

THE 19-YEAR-OLD Ford, a veteran horse and pony showman, has competed in approximately 30 shows already this year. He has won about 40 blue ribbons. He has been in shows at Greenup, Ky.; Ashland, Ky.;

Haver Hill, Ironton, Oak Hill, Chillicothe, Columbus, Glouster and Gallipolis.

Besides riding his own horse in the local show, he will be showing King Baldy, owned by Marge Houck. King Baldy is the Ohio Valley Pleasure Horse champion.

A former 4-H Club member, Ford competed in the Shrine Club show here last year.

All proceeds from the Pickaway County Shrine Club Charity Western Horse show go to the Aladdin Temple Crippled Children's Hospital Assn.

One of the highlights of the evening program will be the name the pony contest in which a 15-year old under youngster will win a free pony.

Lat year the pony was won by Janice Perdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin H. Perdon, Route 4.

By RICHARD DEACON
Written for Associated Press
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—I have the uneasy feeling that people think of me as the world's worst sorcerer.

It's no wonder. I used to be a pretty cheerful fellow. That was before I ran into the status symbol game.

It's the modern version of keeping up with the Joneses. It's guaranteed to make a nervous wreck out of anyone. If you have the right status symbols, you worry for fear they'll go out of date before you can pay for them. If you have the wrong ones—well, look at me. I'm a nervous wreck.

I got the clue early on what to expect when I went out to buy a house.

"How old is it?" I asked the real estate salesman. "This was built by Shepperd Strudwick," he answered, as though that made the house a cut above a Frank Lloyd Wright.

"Oh," I said, "is he a well-known local architect? Turned out Strudwick is a fine actor, who I'm sure would rather be known for his work than for a house. But that's how it goes in Hollywood.

When I finally did buy a house I got quite a bit of status because it used to belong to Cara Williams. And Natalie Wood lived on the corner.

Animals are very important for status in Hollywood. French poodles used to be the thing. Then the Group went to Schnauzers. I got in on the wave with a wonderful miniature Schnauzer named Fred.

But now it's chic to have a mongrel or a beagle—anything, really, with long ears.

It's most important to collect art and I do. But all the artists I collect are living, so I'm not quite in. I do have a little etching by Rembrandt and I carefully point it out to people.

They told me I'd have to have a pool in Hollywood, so I hurried to put one in. After hauling all the rock and arranging all the piping and getting it landscaped, I found out they meant a swimming pool—not a fish pool.

I don't know how much longer I can stay in the race. I have an old convertible, but for status, you need a new convertible. I've ordered a new one but I'm afraid by the time I get it the mode will be back to old convertibles.

Bolton Rips LBJ Policy; Taft Maps His Campaign

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Johnson Administration's foreign policy will be one of the main campaign issues this fall, U.S. Rep. Oliver P. Bolton says.

Bolton, running for congressman-at-large, Wednesday night described the Administration's foreign policy as a "continual encounter of the unprepared with the unforeseen."

Speaking at a Republican picnic in suburban Mount Healthy, Bolton declared that the United States must develop a Cold War strategy "understood and enthusiastically supported by people in all walks of life."

Bolton accused the Democrats of allowing America's system of alliances to fall apart.

The picnic followed an open house news conference at the home of U.S. Rep. Robert Taft Jr., who is leaving the congressman-at-large seat to seek election to the Senate.

Taft also said he feels the Democrats could be successfully attacked on their record in foreign affairs.

Main purpose of the news conference was to unveil Taft's campaign plan, which involves two decorated vans that will make the county fair circuit the next three months.

Taft and his campaign manager, State Rep. Robert Reckman, said they hope the vans would reach more than 2 million people at 40 county fairs between July 23 and Oct. 10. Taft said he hopes to go to as many of the county fairs as his congressional duties permit. About 3,000 volunteers, mostly college students, will help with the campaign.

Taft, leaving today for the Republican convention at San Francisco, said Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona "seems sure of winning the nomination. But he declined to say whether he plans to vote for Goldwater or Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania."

The 58 Ohio delegates are bound to vote for Gov. James A. Rhodes on the first ballot as the favorite son.

Mother in Abortion Fuss Expecting Another Baby

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Sherri Finkbine, center of international controversy two years ago when she had an abortion after taking the drug thalidomide, says she's expecting her fifth child.

Mrs. Finkbine, 31, known as Sherri Chessen on her Phoenix television show, confirmed Wednesday night the report of her pregnancy. She is expecting in January.

She said she doesn't care whether it's a boy or a girl. "I want a healthy, normal baby," she said. She was reluctant to comment further.

"Two years ago I had a valid reason for telling my story," she declared. "To expose the dangers of a drug. Anything I would say now would be only to satisfy curiosity."

Two years ago, on July 22, Mrs. Finkbine revealed her plight when she gave a Phoenix newspaper, the Arizona Republic, her story. She had taken the tranquilizer early in her pregnancy and was 2 months along when she learned the drug was causing the birth of severely deformed babies in Europe.

Her husband, Robert, a Scottsdale high school teacher, had obtained the drug in England while escorting a group of students on a tour.

Engineer Says Congress Can Build Dams

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—An Army engineer said today the proposed Alum and Mill Creek dams, subject of a controversy over who will build them, could be financed by Congress and completed by the end of 1970.

Col. Harrington Cochran said he thought the needed $43 million would be approved by fiscal 1966, if U.S. Rep. Samuel L. Devine and Sens. Frank J. Lausche and Stephen M. Young would help push for the funds.

Cochran, of the U. S. Corps of Engineers, appeared before a special session of the Columbus City Council.

The Scioto Conservancy District also proposes to build the dams, says it can do it quicker and without the "inefficiency" of getting federal money.

Cochran termed local efforts to build the two dams "amazing", especially, he said, since federal money would be available without levying assessments against Columbus area residents.

Kids Learn Reading Alone

NEW YORK (AP) —Without benefit of teachers, 20 children in a public school kindergarten have taught themselves to read at second-grade level. The instruction was by "computerized typewriter."

And they learned faster than did a control group that was given enriched instruction by teachers, it was reported Wednesday.

The results of the five-month state sanctioned experiment at a Freeport, Long Island, school were announced by the superintendent, Dr. John H. Martin.

The youngsters used an electronic machine called the Edison Responsive Environment, which permits the child to type letters, words and sentences that are then reproduced on a screen and spoken by the machine.

The children each spent 30 hours in 30-minute sessions with the machine.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has signed a bill to establish Campobello Island, once the summer home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, as an international park.

The legislation provides for the creation of a U.S.-Canadian commission to accept the home and 10.5-acre tract on the island lying just north of the border. The two countries will share costs of the project.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Library of Congress has received a gift of 700 rare books from Lessing J. Rosenwald, American bibliophile and art collector.

L. Quincy Mumford, Librarian of Congress who announced the gift Wednesday, said the books include the first Bible in German printed in Augsburg about 1475 and a Latin Bible printed in Venice in 1476.

The volumes will be added to the Rosenwald collection of more than 1,500 rare books already in the library.

Rosenwald, 73, who retired 25 years ago as board chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and now lives in Jenkintown, Pa., established the collection in the library in 1943.

WASHINGTON (AP; — The Treasury announced Wednesday a sharp cutback in the amount of money it plans to borrow in the next three months. An improvement of more than $2 billion in the government's cash position is the reason.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Robert V. Roosa said the improvement was due mainly to a reduction in expenditures.

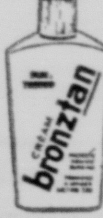

In April, Roosa announced plans for borrowing about $4 billion in mid-July. But he said Wednesday, this will be reduced to $1 billion or $2 billion through September and that the only immediate borrowing will be in the form of increases of $100 million a week in weekly Treasury bills.
